The melodramatic meeting was held according to schedule, and Evers fled over the money. Then the four separated and went their ways, Payne and Young to Rolla, and Burke to St. Louis.

Coming to St. Louis, Burke got "cold feet," as he expressed it, and dropped a roll of the spurious money, amounting to $150, off the train. This presumably was the roll which was later found and turned over to the secret service operatives.

Burke still had some of the money left and, getting into straits, tried to pass some of it in Alton, and was arrested.

MESSENGER FROM ROBBED TRAIN IS QUESTIONED AGAIN

Express Agent Repeats Story of Iron Mountain Holdup, Inside of the City.

STRANGER SEEN IN COACH

One Theory Is That Mistake Saved $100,000 in Gold for St. Louis Bank.

M. M. McRoberts, Pacific Express Co. messenger, who reported that two men entered his car on Iron Mountain train No. 4, blindfolded and bound him and robbed the strong box, was closely questioned by express and railroad detectives Wednesday.

Officials of the express company Wednesday afternoon refused to reveal McRoberts' whereabouts and to all inquiries they answered that he was inaccessible. At his home, 4609 Page boulevard, it was said he was not there.

The investigation of McRoberts' story that he was robbed between Broadway and Tower Grove stations Tuesday night included an attempt to reconcile several seemingly inexplicable differences between his statements and those made by others.

McRoberts says he was alone in the express car when the robbers entered. According to the rules of the company no one but the messenger must be in the express car.

Tell of Stranger in Car.

Three men, one a railroad employe and one a policeman, say they saw a man in the car with McRoberts when the train reached Broadway station, a few minutes before the time when he says he was robbed. They say McRoberts and the other stood near the side door of the car, apparently in friendly conversation.

Anthony Monahan, crossing watchman at Broadway station, says that just after the train pulled out he saw a man swing on at the rear of the car in which McRoberts says he was robbed.

The conductor and the porter of the train say that at that time they were standing on the front platform of the coach next to the express car, and that if a man had jumped on the train they would have seen him.

Assuming that robbers boarded the car one theory is that they mistook train No. 4 for train No. 8, which arrived in St. Louis from Houston, Tex., last night carrying $100,000 in gold for the National Bank of Commerce. Both trains were delayed and No. 4 was running on No. 8's time when it arrived at the Broadway station.

McRoberts says that two men wearing long black coats and masks boarded the express car, overpowered him, placed a handkerchief over his eyes, tied him to a chair and robbed the strong box, which it is believed contained about $1000.

Express company detectives and officials believe that robbers knew of the big shipment of gold on No. 8 and mistook No. 4 for the train carrying the ...ney. J. E. Gregg, conductor of the ...n made a statement to Iron Moun... Railroad officials.

DOG CONDEMNED TO DEATH BY STRANGE WILL OF LATE OWNER

DOG SENTENCED TO DIE BY WILL HAS CHANCE FOR LIFE

Executrix of Mrs. Violet B. Chandler's Estate Wants Tige to Live.

SHALL THIS DOG BE PUT TO DEATH?

SHALL this dog be killed? The Post-Dispatch will be glad to print letters from its readers on this subject.

The fate of Tige, a silver gray Yorkshire terrier, 7 years old, hangs in the balance.

By the will of Mrs. Violet B. Chandler, owner of the dog, filed in the Probate Court, it was provided that after her death Tige should be either chloroformed or shot and given a decent burial. Miss Julia Grady of 2944 Easton avenue, cousin of Mrs. Chandler, is named as executrix of the will. She has become attached to the dog, and does not want to order it killed.

Tige is now being cared for by Dr. Andrew Darling at his home, 3334 Pine street, pending a decision whether the terms of the will shall be carried out.

Mrs. Chandler died Monday at Mullanphy Hospital. She expressed a desire to see Tige before her death, and the dog was taken to the hospital last Friday. Miss Mary Becker, a friend, took the dog to Mrs. Chandler's bedside and she was permitted to stroke its head. A few hours later Mrs. Chandler lapsed into unconsciousness and died.

Miss Grady came to St. Louis three weeks ago from St. Joseph at the request of Mrs. Chandler, to assist in caring for her at the hospital. She has been staying with Mrs. Ella V. Becker at 2944 Easton avenue. The Becker family are striving to save Tige's life. Miss Mary Becker told a Post-Dispatch reporter that she would like to have the dog and would give it a good home if it is decided to allow it to live.

RUEF WILL BEGIN 14-YEAR TERM TOMORROW

Order Committing Former Boss of San Francisco to Prison Is Made.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 1.—An order committing Abraham Ruef to San Quentin Penitentiary, where he will serve a term of 14 years for the bribing of Supervisor John J. Furey, was made today by Superior Judge William P. Lawler.

The order was turned over to the Sheriff's office immediately, and a deputy departed with it to the Branch County Jail, where the former boss is incarcerated.

Ruef probably will be removed to San Quentin tomorrow, as the order did not reach the county jail in time for today's regular trip of the prison van to the penitentiary.

Ruef was busy today settling up his business affairs from his cell in the county jail. His chief attorney, Henry Ach, refused to discuss the plans of the fallen boss, but no move has yet been made to forestall the trip to San Quentin.

CITY COURT BILL IN SENATE SENT TO ENGROSSMENT

Hard Fight Against Such Action in the House Made by Phelps and Gillespie.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1.—The municipal courts bill for St. Louis was sent to engrossment in the Missouri Senate Wednesday, but a hard fight was made in the House of Representatives to prevent its engrossment. There was not a vote against engrossment in the Senate.

Representative W. H. Phelps, Frank Farris and Grant Gillespie led the fight against engrossment of the bill in the House, but did not vote against reading it to engrossment.

Gillispie declared that the bill had the indorsement of the rich people of St. Louis and lawyers who had no practice in the justice of the peace courts. He insisted that the passage of the bill would increase the cost of litigation.

Frank Farris said the bill would take away from the people the only courts they now have, the justice courts.

In the Senate, Thomas E. Kinney of St. Louis objected to increasing the number of assistant circuit attorneys to nine, but when it was explained that the provision increasing the Circuit Attorney's staff did not go into effect until 1915 he withdrew his objection.

"We do not want to give more power to a fixer," Kinney said, referring to conditions in St. Louis.

HEADLESS GHOST KISSED CHILD AND TOLD OF TREASURE

On Spirit's Advice Sicilian and Brothers Dug at Midnight in a Cellar.

SUSPENSE IS TERRIBLE

Flat Stone Is Found, Clock Strikes One and They Desist Without Learning of Riches.

The visits of a headless ghost to Philip Pizzo's home at 416 South Sixteenth street and a midnight search in the basement there for hidden gold led to police investigation Wednesday. Patrolmen McCarthy and Kaiser, within whose beat the home lies, thought they were on the trail of a murder mystery, but this proved to be an injustice to the ghost.

McCarthy and Kaiser heard, in making their rounds, that an effort had been made to bury a body in the basement of Pizzo's home during the night, and that in the earth of the basement could be found the grave.

An excavation six feet long, two feet wide and several feet deep was in sight. So they questioned Pizzo. It was with considerable trepidation that Pizzo revealed to them his secret.

"A ghost came to see me a month ago," he said. "It had no head, and it spoke Italian. I am from Sicily. It advised me about my business.

"All the doors of my room and all the windows were locked. That did not matter. What are locks to ghosts? It came in. One night it woke me by pulling my leg. It pulled me nearly out of bed."

"And one night it kissed me," interrupted 7-year-old Annie Pizzo.

The policemen did not stop to ask questions about headless osculation; they wanted to get down to the grave.

"Night before last the ghost appeared to me," said Pizzo, "and it told me there was much gold buried in my cellar, but that I must dig for it only from midnight until 1 o'clock in the morning.

"And if I dug one second after 1 o'clock, I would drop dead. And so would my brothers, Giuseppi and Domenico, who were to help me.

"We must dig right under the window in the basement, the ghost said, and we must make a hole six feet long and two feet wide. And at each corner we were to place a candle, to ward off evil spirits, and keep all four of them burning.

"And I was told that after we had dug awhile, we would find a flat stone, and that under it would be gold enough to make us all rich for life.

"We did as we were told. When the clock struck 12 we began digging. On account of the candles only one of us could dig at a time and not catch fire, and we feared to put one of the candles out.

"We struck a flat stone, and we cleaned it off. And then we stopped to pray, because we knew we had found the treasure.

"We cleaned off the stone and put the point of the pick under it, and just as we were about to raise it, the city hall clock struck 1."

"Well, what was under the stone?" Kaiser demanded.

"That I do not know," Pizzo responded. "Perhaps we would have lifted it anyhow, but Domenico was not willing to die if he could not have any of the gold. And the ghost said all of us would die if we worked after 1 o'clock. Perhaps the ghost will tell me tonight what to do."

"I'll go down and lift the stone for you," McCarthy volunteered.

But Pizzo besought him so earnestly and so eloquently not to touch the stone that he desisted.

"We'll see you tomorrow," said Kaiser and McCarthy as they departed.

They were searching for their motor skiff, "Nifty," stolen Tuesday evening from its slip at the foot of St. George street.

They returned Wednesday morning without the boat. They said that several times they were so near the stolen skiff they could hear its engine puffing.

Oklahoman, in Opposing His Retention, Po... to Corruption in St. Louis, Denver and Sa... Francisco Purged by Reformers—Brings Up the Illinois "Jack Pot."

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch

WASHINGTON, March 1.—By a vote of 46 to 40 in the S... ate today William Lorimer was permitted to retain his seat, a... one of the hardest fights that was ever instituted to oust a ... ber of the upper house of Congress.

Lorimer closed his long battle by a last plea to those who s... ported his contention that despite the confessions of members ... the Illinois Legislature that they had received from $2000 to $25... to vote for him, and despite subsequent indictments, he kn... nothing of the wholesale bribery.

Lorimer's retention in the Senate was without demonstration upon the floor of the Senate, but there was a ripple of applause by his friends in the gallery.

Senator Owen of Oklahoma made the last spectacular speech to the Senate opposing Lorimer. He criticised his colleagues for upholding the Illinoisan accused of getting his seat by bribery, and pointed to St. Louis as one of the cities, like San Francisco and Denver, that had been saved from corruptionists through the medium of the reformers.

The famous "Jack Pot" bribery of the Illinois Legislature was touched upon in the course of the debate that directly preceded the vote on the Lorimer case.

Senator Owen read a long telegram from Gov. Deneen, in which the State's executive denied certain allegations concerning him that had been made by Lorimer. This was particularly concerning the confession of Representative White of the Illinois Legislature, who said that he had been paid to vote for Lorimer.

The charge that the Governor had entered into a conspiracy to hinder the publication of White's confession was pronounced by the telegram to be entirely without foundation. The Governor wired that he knew nothing of the confession until it was on the press and that he then had given out an interview expressing the opinion that there should be an investigation.

Deneen Makes Denial.

Gov. Deneen also said that after the primaries he had been for Hopkins for Senator; also that when approached by Lorimer to become a candidate for the Senate he had refused the use of his name and had advised the holding of a caucus. Therefore it was not true that he had consented to be a candidate and had then withdrawn his consent. He had advised his friends, he said, not to vote for Lorimer for Senator.

Nor was it true, the telegram went on, that the Governor sought to elect a Speaker of the Illinois House or had opposed Shurtleff. If Shurtleff had been nominated by the Republican caucus the Governor would have supported him. The Governor made the point against the Illinois Senator that if he could not have elected a speaker, as charged by Lorimer, he could not have elected Hopkins, as Lorimer had said he could.

Gov. Deneen also declared that Lorimer's proposition to elect the Governor to the Senatorship had involved the use of Democratic votes, and Deneen expressed doubts that election by such a course would have the effect of healing breaches in the Republican party, as Lorimer had expressed confidence that it would.

Senator Owen after reading Deneen's telegram declared that the question was not so much one as to a seat in the Senate as of whether the Senate should stifle bribery and corruption or encourage such practices. He denounced the ... partisan combination as "thieves and ... knaves." He was strongly ... ion that the "jackpot" ... should still be investigated ... not rest until we ... "black ...

HISTORY OF FIGHT IN LORIMER CASE

CHICAGO, March 1.—When Charles A. White of East St. Louis confessed 10 months ago that he had been paid $1000 to vote to send Lorimer to the United States Senate, he started what developed to be the greatest political scandal in the history of Illinois. His confession was followed by others, grand jury investigations, indictments for bribery, perjury, jury fixing and charges and accusations which have torn political factions apart and finally resulted in an investigation by the United States Senate.

Lorimer's election came May 26, 1909, at the end of the longest senatorial deadlock in the history of the State, when 53 Democratic members of the Joint Assembly voted for the Republican candidate. His election was followed by rumors of corruption, as Lorimer had not been considered a candidate until the end, but it was not until White made a detailed confession that the storm broke.

White Received $1000.

White confessed that Lee O'Neil Browne, Democratic minority leader in the House, paid him $1000 to vote for Lorimer. He declared that Browne also promised him a part of the "jack pot" fund which was to be divided after the Legislature adjourned.

White said Browne paid him part of the $1000 in Springfield, but most of it at the Briggs House, in Chicago.

After the Legislature had adjourned, he said, he was summoned to St. Louis and there paid $900—his share of the "jack pot" fund—by Representative Robert E. Wilson of Chicago.

State's Attorney Wayman began a grand jury investigation of White's charges May 2. Browne was indicted for bribery. The first trial ended in a disagreement, after the jury had been out a record-breaking number of hours. He was acquitted at the end of the second trial and the verdict was quickly followed by charges of jury fixing.

Representative Beckemeyer of Carlyle admitted, May 5, that White's charges were true and declared that he had been paid $1000 for his vote. Representative Link of Mitchell, whom White had said also received money when the "jack pot" was divided, persistently denied the charge.

Two Indicted for Perjury.

On May 6 Link and Wilson were indicted for perjury, the latter having denied the dividing up of the "jack pot" among members of the Legislature. The next day Link broke down and admitted that he also had received $1000, and his prosecution was stopped.

Lorimer and Browne charged that the confessions were part of a huge conspiracy and blackmailing plot started to injure the Senator just as he was about to open a new bank in Chicago.

A few days after State's Attorney Wayman began his grand jury investigation State's Attorney Burke of Springfield instituted a searching inquiry at the State capital. His investigation resulted in a sensational disclosure on May 28. At almost the same hour that Lorimer was standing on the floor of the United States Senate defending his election and declaring that the bribery charges were part of a conspiracy to ruin him politically, Senator D. W. Holstlaw, a banker of Iuka, confessed that he received $2500 for voting for Lorimer.

While political Illinois was being shaken by the revelations of bribery in the election of Lorimer and the disclosures that big "jack pots" were accumulated annually from interests wishing favorable legislation, the United States Senate decided to make an investigation whether the Illinois Senator's seat was won by corruption and whether he should be permitted to retain it.

Senate Begins Investigation.

On Sept. 20 the committee, headed by Senator Burrows of Michigan, began its inquiry. Browne as well as other members of the Legislature were on the witness stand. It was the first time Browne had discussed the charges, and he denied that money was used to purchase Lorimer's election. The Senate committee's investigation ended Oct. 8.

After the report of the committee which placed the stamp of approval on Lorimer's election went to the Senate it stirred up a lot of oratory, both by Lorimer's friends and those who believed his seat was obtained by corruption. The private virtues of Lorimer were exploited by Senator Bailey of Texas, who wiped the tears from his eyes as he told ... so-called conspiracy to unseat ... Senator.

COURT REFUSES IMMEDIATE TRIAL TO LEO GARDNER

Young Defendant Protests Continuance of Automobile Manslaughter Case.

Hurrying from Judge McQuillin's court, where he had entered a plea for a change of venue for Harry B. Gardner, charged with subornation of perjury, Attorney Arthur N. Sager Wednesday appeared before Judge Taylor and asked an immediate trial for Gardner's son Leo, charged with manslaughter. Leo Gardner is accused of having run down and killed Jesse Williams while driving an automobile last April.

A wordy encounter ensued between Sager and Assistant Circuit Attorney Rudolph. The latter asked for a continuance.

"Deputy sheriffs have been searching for two witnesses that we need in this case," Rudolph told the Court, "but thus far they have not been able to find them."

"They didn't hunt very hard," said Sager. "I'll help them find the witnesses, if they wish me to, and I'll guarantee that I'll have them in court in three hours."

The witnesses referred to were William Gleason of 4175 Russell avenue and Howard Graham of 3011 Cleveland avenue.

Judge Taylor granted the State's motion for a continuance, and set Leo Gardner's trial for March 20.

Judge McQuillin took the plea for a change of venue for Harry Gardner under consideration. Harry B. Gardner is charged with [illegible] who were summoned before the grand jury in the investigation of the charges against his son.

Recently he asked for a change of venue from the city, on the ground that he could not get a fair trial in St. Louis. Judge McQuillin ruled against him then. He now asks a change of venue from Judge McQuillin's court, on the ground that Judge McQuillin is prejudiced against him.

The prejudice was fostered, Gardner alleges, by the wide publicity given to his insurance transactions.

Good Liver Remedy Free

When you suffer from any form of indigestion it is always well to take something for the liver, as usually the trouble lies there. If you are bilious, have a bloaty feeling after eating, if you belch, if your skin is yellowish you may be sure it is liver trouble.

What you need is something to stir up the liver, to arouse the gastric juices so that they will aid in the digestion of your food. A very good remedy for this, and one highly recommended by those who have used it, is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin, which you can obtain of any druggist at fifty cents or one dollar a bottle. But if you have any doubt about its merits, and would prefer to try it first, send your address to Dr. Caldwell and he will promptly send you a free sample bottle.

Thousands of people first learned of this remarkable cure for stomach, liver and bowel troubles through a free sample. Mrs. Frank Lilly of Plainview, Ill., sent for one and it cured her and she is open in saying that she will never take pills or strong cathartics again, as Syrup Pepsin acts so mildly. Mr. W. L. Bryant, the Postmaster at Sardis, Tenn., says he will never be without it again. No sick person can afford to ignore a remedy so highly indorsed as this. It is good for all the family from infancy to old age, because it is mild, free from griping and yet promptly effective. Furthermore, results are absolutely guaranteed or money will be refunded.

Dr. Caldwell does not feel that the purchase of his remedy ends his obligation. He has specialized in stomach, liver and bowel diseases for over 40 years and will be pleased to give the reader any advice on the subject free of charge. All are welcome to write him. Whether for the medical advice or the free sample, address him Dr. W. B. Caldwell, 541 Caldwell Building, Monticello, Ill.

...RATE R...NG NOT TO HU... PLANS OF MISSOURI PACIFIC

Improvements Will Be Pushed Forward Regardless, Bankers in Control Say.

MEETING IN ST. LOUIS

It Is Believed That Howard Elliot Will Become President to Succeed Gould.

Bankers who have assumed control of the Missouri Pacific system's affairs state that the adverse rate decision of the Interstate Commerce Commission will have no effect upon their plans for the rehabilitation of the property, according to news dispatches from New York.

It is declared that Kuhn, Loeb & Co. have an improvement budget aggregating $175,000,000, representing recommendations made by officials in the past five years, but which at every meeting of the Board of Directors, has been held over for lack of funds.

In the past three years $9,000,000 has been spent on the 624 miles of line between Kansas City and Pueblo, but it is asserted that today the property is in worse shape than before and the trains on many stretches of this track cannot run faster than four miles an hour. The line for the entire distance was laid with 85-pound rail, but because of the unstable character of the ballast the rails were distorted and strained, making fast running time impossible.

St. Louis Meeting Scheduled.

These improvements will have to be made over, it is understood, together with other work which is said to have been improperly done owing to poor managerial and engineering methods.

The annual stockholders' meeting of the company for the election of a new Board of Directors will be held at the local offices of the Missouri Pacific March 14. A St. Louis member of the Board of Directors told a Post-Dispatch reporter Tuesday that there will be no contests over the directorships; that Kuhn, Loeb & Co will have matters their own way and George J. Gould, the retiring president of the company, who becomes chairman of board probably will not attend the St. Louis meeting.

Elliot May Be President.

It is believed in St. Louis financial circles that Howard Elliot, president of the Northern Pacific Railroad Co. and former general manager of the Missouri lines of the Burlington System finally will be prevailed upon to accept the Missouri Pacific presidency. St. Louis members of the directorate, also leading bankers here, are urging Elliot.

Cary Gray, senior vice-president of the Frisco system, and Benjamin Winchell, president of that company, are among those mentioned to succeed President Gould.

There is high authority for the statement that the Missouri Pacific's new president will be confronted with the need of reorganizing the forces and departments which heretofore have been working at cross purposes.

BARON TAKAHIRA OPTIMISTIC OVER THE NEW TREATY

Former Ambassador Sees the Japanese-American Misunderstanding Dissolved.

Special Cable to the Post-Dispatch and New York World.
Copyright, 1911, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

TOKIO, March 1.—"I have no doubt that the treaty, when accomplished and put in practice, will practically dissolve the misunderstanding between the two nations which was the result of the former treaty."

So said Baron Kogoro Takahira, formerly Ambassador at Washington, of the new treaty between Japan and the United States to the Post-Dispatch correspondent. "I believe the new treaty was born in President Roosevelt's administration and that all the credit for it is not due to President Taft's administration." Baron Takahira added. "I think, too, that Senator Elihu Root contributed much to its ratification by the United States Senate."

Equal Footing With Powers.

"That long-existing disgrace to Japan, article 2 in the old treaty, has been removed," said Yukio Ozaki, Mayor of Tokio, who, during his recent visit to America, was presented to President Taft. "Japan will now be received by America on an equal footing with the other powers. The obnoxious article 2 of the old treaty was not an advantage to America; its removal was a great honor, but no gain, to Japan.

"Japan should pay tribute to America for yielding to Japan's desire that the existing treaty be terminated a year in advance of the date of its expiration—this year instead of next.

"The whole truth is that American friendship for Japan has never changed, and we should be ashamed of ever doubting it."

The government remains silent on the question of the neutralization of the Manchurian railways.

The first negotiations for the new treaty were conducted by Baron Takahira, then Ambassador, and Secretary of State Root. The treaty was finally drawn by Baron Vehiva, who succeeded Takahira in December, 1909, and Secretary Knox. The provision which Mayor Ozaki characterized as "a long existing disgrace to Japan," is contained in the last paragraph of Article II of the existing treaty.

Distasteful Provision.

It reads: "It is, however, understood that the provisions contained in this and the preceding article do not in any way affect the laws, ordinances and regulations with regard to trade, the immigration of laborers, police and public security, which are in force or which may hereafter be enacted in either of the two countries."

WORKING WOMEN

Here Is a Helping Hand—A Newton Woman's Experience.

You know just how it is yourself—when you are tired out, perhaps a little run-down, and hardly able to drag around, life is a burden, you are irritable, nervous, depressed and every little task seems like a mountain.

Miss Katharine Burns, of Newton, Mass., says—"About six months ago I was in a run-down condition and my blood was very poor. I had taken several medicines prescribed by physicians, but they seemed to do me no good. Finally Vinol was recommended, and from the first bottle I noticed a great improvement. I have taken six bottles and I feel as well as ever, and I would recommend Vinol to anybody needing a good tonic to build them up and make them strong." (We guarantee this testimonial to be genuine.)

We want to ask every woman who finds herself in this condition to try Vinol, our delicious cod liver and iron tonic, without oil, with the understanding that their money will be returned if it does not help them.

We know Vinol will create an appetite, aid digestion, make pure, rich blood, and in this way build up and strengthen the run-down, overworked nervous system. You take no chances. Try it. Wolff-Wilson Drug Co., St. Louis, Mo.

Interesting Reading for Tubercular Invalids

The makers of Eckman's Alterative—the medicine that is curing tuberculosis all over the country—will send direct, a pamphlet and other literature that every consumptive should read. It tells in their own language the story of those whom Eckman's Alterative has cured. Such straight-from-the-heart evidence this booklet holds is convincing. No matter if you have unfortunately spent time and money experimenting with nearly every "cure" under the sun, investigate Eckman's Alterative. If shown the heart-touching affidavit of a father whose only son was cured of tuberculosis by Eckman's Alterative after all hope had been abandoned, could it not carry some weight with you? A specimen:

718 Cherry St., Phila., Pa.

Gentlemen: "In July, 1905, I first noticed the conditions that showed I had consumption. I lost weight rapidly; had a hollow cough, hemorrhages and very severe night sweats. My brother recommended Eckman's Alterative. In the Fall of 1906 I began to take it. At this time I am perfectly well and robust. My appetite is good and my weight has increased from 110 to 140 pounds. Not a trace of my old trouble remains. I will gladly express the merits of this medicine to anyone."

(Signed) M. L. GERHARDT.

Society Shuns the Victim of Catarrh

Snuffles, Hawking, Spitting and Foul Breath Not Welcome

If sufferers from catarrh could only "see themselves as others see them," they would lose no time in getting rid of that vile disease.

It doesn't matter whether you are a member of New York's select Four Hundred or a member of a neighborhood social set, the same rule of decency prevails and the same American hatred of offensive habits is always in evidence.

So if you are troubled with catarrh, learn right now that it requires some effort to get rid of it. Make up your mind today that swallowing a few pills or using a spray or douche won't do.

Catarrh can be overcome, but only by sensible methods.

HYOMEI is the sensible remedy for catarrh that has stood the test of time. In the opinion of many, it has benefited more catarrh sufferers than all the catarrh specialists on earth.

And just what is HYOMEI? many people may ask.

HYOMEI is a soothing, healing, germ killing antiseptic that you breathe into the lungs over the sore, inflamed germ ridden membrane. It is made from Australian eucalyptus and some Listerian antiseptics.

A complete HYOMEI outfit, which consists of a bottle of HYOMEI, a hard rubber inhaler (through which you breathe) and simple instructions for use, costs $1.00. Extra bottles, if afterwards needed, cost but 50 cents.

For catarrh, sore throat, coughs, colds, asthma and croup, HYOMEI is guaranteed. For sale by druggists everywhere. Mail orders filled charges prepaid by Booth's Hyomei Co., Buffalo, N. Y. Send for free booklet on catarrh.

Fer-Mil-Lac, the delicious drink, palatable as cream—smooth as velvet—has wonderful toning effect. By clearing the whole system of poisons it develops and retains youth and beauty. Note the reasons.

DELICIOUS

CULTURED MILK

Is made of the purest of selected whole milk with the addition of a marvelous health building culture.

This culture or "friendly germ" was discovered by the great Metchnikoff of the Pasteur Institute while investigating a food universally used by the strong, rosy cheeked Bulgarians.

He found that this friendly germ immediately rids the digestive tract of poisons.

It is these poisons that make the face sallow and muddy, that rob the cheek of its rosy tint, and the eye of its luster. Banish the poisons and the skin clears up, the soft delicate tints of good health appear—the eye regains its sparkle.

This is what Fer-Mil-Lac does. Drink it every day—three times a day—and these results will be noted in a wonderfully short time.

And you will like Fer-Mil-Lac. The memory of it always makes you want another glass.

Those who cannot drink milk, can drink Fer-Mil-Lac, like it, digest it and get all milk benefits.

ABOUT THE MOUTH AND TEETH.

The mouth is the prime factor of beauty and the most expressive feature of the human countenance. The whole face loses its charm if the mouth exhibits a lot of decayed, unsightly teeth. You can keep your countenance beautiful if your teeth are properly cared for. "Tooth pullers" will destroy the beauty of the teeth, but a reliable dentist will improve your looks by saving your teeth instead of destroying them.

It would seem that everyone would want nothing but the best in dentistry, but many people will sacrifice lasting quality for low price and in the end the work is no good.

BILLION DOLLAR MERCHANTS ASK TARIFF REVISION

Association Representing Bulk of Cotton Goods Trade Send Resolutions to President Taft, Urging That Corrections Be Made at an Extra Session.

WOMEN JOIN MOVE FOR DUTY CHANGES

Societies Adopt Petitions and Individuals Point Out the Injustices of Present Schedule, Especially on the Necessaries of Life.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—At a meeting attended by the representatives of the dry goods trade at the Merchants' Association yesterday afternoon, a resolution was unanimously passed petitioning President Taft to "immediately convene an extraordinary session of Congress for the purpose of effecting a remedial revision downward of the cotton cloth schedules of the present tariff law."

Notifications of the meeting had been sent to 276 houses, including wholesale and retail distributors, garment manufacturers, domestic cloth manufacturers, jobbers, importers, converters, selling agents—in fact, to every individual and firm of influence in New York City. The aggregate capital represented by the firms to which the call was sent is estimated at $1,000,000,000.

Necessity for Quick Action.

Philip F. Timpson, a partner in the firm of A. L. Reid & Co., cotton goods manufacturers, occupied the chair. He briefly explained the conditions confronting the trade and the necessity of immediate action, then called on R. K. MacLea to describe the history and functions of the Tariff Board and what it had accomplished in laying down methods for investigation.

Next, F. B. Shipley told how a similar meeting had been held two years ago, when it had been expected Congress would keep the pledges of the Republican party and revise the tariff downward. He described the work of a committee of manufacturers in the last campaign which resulted in making cotton a political issue.

"As a result there are 40 congressmen who will take their seats on March 4 who directly owe their seats to this agitation," Shipley said. "These men are going to do something with the cotton schedules, and the frame of mind of the new Congress is to rip the present law up to the roots.

"Men high in power, whose names must be kept secret, have been sounding the feeling of the trade, looking to a compromise that will protect both the consumer and the manufacturer.

"We do not believe the present tariff is right at all. It was made to suit the interests of a few favored manufacturers. If the dry goods trade demands a revision, its behests will receive respectful consideration."

Cotton Schedule Too High.

F. D. Sherman, a cotton goods manufacturer, said that a revision of the tariff was necessary and that both foreign and domestic manufacturers agreed the present cotton schedule was unreasonably high. "We want to see this schedule taken up promptly and revised downward," he said.

In the discussion following the reading of the resolution one speaker said that in the Middle West there is a feeling that distributors in New York wished to keep goods as high as possible.

"This is not so," he continued. "We recognize that the tariff as it stands has been made, not by the trade as a whole, but by a few. It is crooked from top to bottom and it is time for every merchant to let the people know we are not for extortionate prices."

WOMEN ASK FOR EXTRA SESSION

Clubs and Individuals Think That Tariff Revision Should Come at Once.

By Leased Wire From the New York Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The following resolutions were unanimously adopted by the Government Club at its monthly meeting yesterday at the Hotel Astor:

"Whereas, The high cost of living, in consequence of the high protective tariff, has become so oppressive, we, the members of the Government Club, earnestly and respectfully petition the President to convene an extra session of Congress, during which the downward revision of the tariff be given precedence over all other matters.

"We, who are the home makers, keenly appreciate the great necessity for a lower schedule of taxes on food and clothing, as well as the other necessaries of life. We further believe that the injustices and abuses of the excessive tariff have not only influenced our own condition, but have also lessened the happiness and well-being of the great multitude of hard-working people, to whom proper food and recreation are denied.

MRS. BELLE DE RIVERA, President."

The keynote of the discussion which preceded the passing of this resolution was the cause and effect of the tariff-protected monopolies and their relation to the high cost of living.

Another organization, and one which has discussed legislative measures for almost twenty-five years, held an animated discussion and adopted resolutions, which they forwarded to President Taft, as follows:

"Resolved, That we, the members of the Society for Political Study, who feel the effect of the high cost of living, which we believe is due to the unjust burden of taxation imposed on the necessaries of life, urgently petition the President to call an extra session of Congress for the purpose of revising the high tariff law.

"Recognizing at the same time that the high prices are chiefly controlled by tariff-protected agencies who use excessive taxation for the protection of the manufacturer regardless of resulting conditions to the laboring man—who finds it more difficult each day to cope with the emergencies of life—we, as women, strongly and freely protest against this excessive taxation of food and clothing, and urge the President not to permit this vital issue to wait over for the next session of Congress.

"MRS. LEWIS W. BOYNTON, President."

Views of Other Women.

Both these resolutions are the crystallization of sentiment resulting from the many discussions conducted in the women's clubs of this city for the past month along the line of the demand for immediate action on the high cost of living. Other noted club women expressed their opinions as follows:

Mrs. John Jerome Rooney, Vice-President National League for the Civic Federation of Women: The issue upon which the new Congress was elected, the tariff issue should have immediate consideration in order to bring relief to the American homes. The tariff is a tax and it falls upon consumption, thus raising the price of the necessaries of life and the chief proceeds of this tax go to the American Trusts, not to the United States treasury.

Miss Jane Fales, director of textiles and needle work at Teachers' College: I believe that the tariff should be revised to the difference in wage levels of the trading countries. As I am deeply interested in living conditions I cannot speak too strongly in favor of an extra session.

Mrs. Jesse Tobey, professor of millinery at Teachers' College: Of course the high cost of living is due to the high tariff and that makes it so difficult for the laboring classes.

Miss Patty S. Hill, assistant professor of kindergarten education at Teachers' College: I know that the cost of living is a serious problem for those who have to deal with the bringing up of little children. Existing conditions certainly mean ill-nourished children who are ready for disease, ready for crime, and for failure in the schools.

Mrs. Elizabeth Worth-Muller, lawyer, Monticello, N. Y.: I am convinced the high tariff in this country is a great menace, especially to the poor. I have always opposed low tariff, but the matter is simply overdone.

A PETITION.

Only by the calling of a special session of the newly elected Congress can the burdensome tariff taxes on the necessaries of life be lightened or removed before next year.

Only President Taft can call that special session.

If YOU wish to see the known abuses and injustices of the existing tariff corrected AT THE EARLIEST POSSIBLE MOMENT; if YOU wish to have this unjust tax removed from the FOOD AND CLOTHING of the American people NOW, fill out and send this blank to the Post-Dispatch and your name will be added to the signers of a continuous petition which the Post-Dispatch and the New York World will begin within a few days to transmit to the President.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

Please add my name to the petition to President Taft to call a special session of Congress in March to remove taxation from the necessaries of life.

For Thursday and Friday We Announce an Exposition and

Sale of Beautiful Washable Fabrics, that will rival any similar occasion

(Main Floor)

There will be singing birds and floral decorations—also living models

(Main Floor)

An exhibition has been arranged to show the possibilities of the new Wash Goods, and the simplest as well as the most elaborate, but withal the most stylish and dainty frocks will be on view in this department tomorrow.

In order that the gowns may appear in their natural environment, and serving the purpose for which they are best intended, some of them will be shown on living models.

There are many entirely new materials for the coming season; vast improvements in last year's crazes and revivals and new adaptations of old favorites.

Marquisettes of silk or cotton, and the new Gilguisette Silk-and-cotton mixtures, Voiles, foreign and domestic; French Linens, Handkerchief Linens, Piques, St. Gall Swisses, Organdies and Ginghams are the materials which play the most important part in the season's fancies.

Especial attention has been given the Marquisettes, as they are most adaptable to the reigning vogue of veiled effects. They are most modish when they come in the fashionable embroiderie anglaise effects. Eyelets elaborately embroidered in bands, borders and allover application suggest the most charming of all summer frocks.

Voiles, too, are destined to exceed even their previous records in popularity, and are to be seen printed in dark rich tones, which rival silk in their delicate shadings. They are perfectly washable, even in the Persian and elaborate floral effects.

For the purpose of showing how even some of the least expensive materials may be made into the most attractive and stylish gowns, charming models will parade in tasteful gowns, which we have had constructed for this occasion.

A beautiful floral and vine-hung background has been arranged, and the department will present a delightful picture commensurate with the occasion, which is really one of the most important Openings of our whole season.

WALLACE BEGINS REIGN AS BOSS OF TEAM TONIGHT

Browns' Manager and Squad of Players Depart for Hot Springs Wednesday.

SOME WILL BE MISSING

George, Pelty, Laporte and Clancy Listed Among the Tardy Members.

George Is a Holdout, but Will Come Here to Talk Over Terms

YORK, Pa., March 1.

PITCHER "LEFTY" GEORGE, whom the Browns of St. Louis obtained from the Indianapolis (American Association) team, leaves today for St. Louis to hold a conference with President Hedges. George has not signed a contract, but has been requested to go to St. Louis. He has been working out at the local Y. M. C. A. gymnasium.

"I believe I will be worth more than the figures stipulated in the contract offered me," said George, "but President Hedges has promised to adjust matters satisfactorily. Indianapolis offered me more than St. Louis, but I want to play in the latter place."

At 9 o'clock Wednesday evening the main squad of Browns, under the leadership of Manager Rhoderick J. Wallace, will board a special at Union Station for Hot Springs to make preparations for the coming American League campaign. It is expected that at least 21 athletes will be in the party that gets away from here.

At the Vapor City the players will be met by the athletes who make their homes in the West and South and who have gone to the training camp direct. John Powell, husky right-hander, has been at the springs for 10 days.

Manager Wallace hasn't given out the news for his training system. However, within a few hours after the party arrives at the spa, the players will hike to Majestic Park, Hot Springs' newest baseball yard, for the first practice of the season.

Wallace and Grif to Confer.

Manager Wallace will also line up Manager Clarke Griffith of the Reds of Cincinnati. As the Browns and Reds are to use the same park the managers will agree on the time that each team is to spend at the lot. It is probable that the teams will alternate in the mornings and afternoons. When the athletes have limbered up, short games will likely be programed.

Wallace will be in charge of a big squad of players, but it will be a week or more at least before he will be able to count all noses. Barney Pelty, veteran right-hander, has asked for and received permission to skip the jaunt for a few days. Barney's sister recently died and he is unable to climb aboard the train at Bismark, Mo., as is usually his custom. Barney says he will likely show up about Saturday or Sunday.

"Lefty" George, the demon holdout, will probably arrive at the same time. He is dissatisfied, but George is too valuable a player to remain out in the cold. After his arrival here and a short talk with President Hedges, he will probably emerge from the latter's office happy and contented and a full-fledged Brownieg.

Laporte Will Be Tardy.

Frank Laporte, heavy hitter, acquired from the Yankees of New York for $5000, is mixed up in some case in court. For that reason he will be tardy. In a wire to President Hedges, he briefly relates the cause of his delay. Frank is such a good player, however, that he is welcome any time.

The opposite is the case, however, with Pitcher Clancy, who was dug up in Santa Fe, N. M. Somebody told President Hedges that Clancy was a "bear" and he was slipped a contract. But Clancy writes that he has a good job out West and wants President Hedges to pay him during the training season. Clancy has a great name for a player, but he will be permitted to linger in that dear Santa Fe.

WRAY'S COLUMN

IF you would know the exact shade of difference between a veteran baseball player and a recruit, run over to the hostelry and watch the desk. Vets can carry on a conversation without looking around to see if their grips are still safe.

Evidently the Missouri University simon-purists have not yet attained the zenith of amateurism since they intend to permit Bill Harper of the Browns to pitch for the team this spring. Ordinarily Bill's career would be considered spotless—unless some person knows the name he played under during the summers of the past. But to reach the real ultimate in things amateur, Missouri will have to follow the sporting idea adopted in the East. That is: Once a player has accepted terms from a league team, whether he has pitched a professional game or not, he loses his right to play with his college club.

Not that anybody out here is advocating this injustice. But it would seem the Missouri Valley Conference extremists have overlooked one opportunity to put on the screws and ruin a team.

Better to Fight Than "Quit."

ALAS for the fatuousness of athletes! They will not be convinced against their will. Besides Battling Nelson and one million others there is Jiggs Donahue, who more than once has fractured his reputation as a big leaguer. From Hot Springs Jiggs sends out the story that he is sure he can return to form.

So are they all sure.

But none ever returns; the law is inexorable. It's rather pitiful to see them from decade to decade slipping back, but always gripping the belief that the decline is merely temporary; always fighting to get back the lost entity that makes the difference between first-class and that below. And always failing.

It's a good fight, though, even when it loses. Players keep higher up in the scale the longer though making a battle to keep on top. It's when the fight for first place is given up that the quick slide to the bottom begins.

* * *

J. Callahan, manager of the White Sox? It listens well when dovetailed in with Chicago conditions. At any rate it's a good thing that Hugh Duffy has a liberal contract.

* * *

Handsome Is as Handsome Does.

IF good looks were deeds the Browns' squad would be right to the front this year in the pennant race. Dan Hoffman, who can really run and hit when his mind is on the game, never appeared fitter in his life. If Hoffmman should by chance get back the enthusiasm all seem to have lost last year, he will make the Murrays and the Williamses and the rest beat their records of the past to get his job.

George Stone will need but little work—only enough to get his eye on the ball. Who knows? It is far from being a certainty that any of the outfield of last season — Stone, Schweitzer and Hoffman, will be replaced. Any of this trio would fit in with a real club when going at the pace they started two years ago.

* * *

Watch This Murray.

Murray is the lad from whom most is expected in outfield competition. Murray has permission to keep at his life-saving job down at a Florida beach and will report late. However, he says that the eye trouble which ruined the last half of his season's performance in 1910 has entirely vanished. If so, this lad should bat his way into the regular outfield.

Other members of the team who have arrived show signs of care of their health. Bill Bailey, too, appears fitter than he has for many moons and that may mean the salvation of a once promising twirler.

But alas, good looks need other backing to win championships. Rather they would report rotund and overweight and shape up right by training, than have them lean and racy, only to go stale with the least effort later.

* * *

Lucky Roy Hartzell.

ROY HARTZELL has some reason to be pleased with his transfer to the New York Americans. From a tail-end team he jumps to one with a pennant possibility. If he can even get his name on the commission's list of Yankees who play the Giants in an inter-city series he is sure of about $1000 extra for his, even if his side is beaten. If the team wins a world's pennant he will run that up close to $3000.

* * *

Two Flags for New York?

One city, Chicago, has recently owned both rivals for the world's championship in the same season. This year it is not beyond possibility that New York repeat this feat. The Giants are now favored in the race for the National League flag, while the New York Americans are considered next to the Athletics in most minds. With a little break the Yankees might grab the American League flag. Imagine the crowds that would scramble to see those battles! If the plan of auctioning off the seats is carried out, then there would be no limit to the amount that might be realized from this series.

And Hartzell, who has played substitute baseball for two years, would cut in on that. Do you wonder he's satisfied?

The Post-Dispatch is the only evening newspaper in St. Louis that receives by public wire gathered by the Associated Press.

BAT NELSON, LIGHTWEIGHT CHAMPION CONVERSATIONALIST.

NELSON PRAISES LOCAL AMATEURS

Holders of A. A. U. Cards Do Most of the Fighting at Edwardsville Professional Show.

If it had not been for St. Louis "amateurs" the boxing card at Edwardsville, Ill., Tuesday night, at which Bat Nelson, former lightweight champion, was referee, would have fallen very flat. There was Eddie Meyers, Harry Wade, Cy. Brooks and numerous other holders of A. A. U. cards. These boys furnished the fighting. The Battler, after watching the amateurs work, declared that they were real fighters and that they were deserving a lot of praise.

As an incidental sidelight Harry Trendall met "Young Gordon" from Chicago. Gordon may have been able to fight, but that was long ago. Trendall played with him for two rounds. In the third he let go with his powerful right hand and Gordon went down. He was not out, but fully realized the fact that if he got up he would only hit the canvas again. Nelson, stop-watch in hand, counted 10. He could have kept on counting until he got to 110.

Battling Nelson, between times, told some fight stories. They rang the bell on him twice, started the orchestra once and also made an ominous noise. The "Durable Dane" kept right on and had his little say. In all, the Battler talked some thirty odd minutes. He was not even puffing at the finish.

According to a rule of the Amateur Athletic Union, athletes competing in an unsanctioned tournament forfeit their standing and cards. The registration committee of the local district is expected to take up the cases of the men involved.

Trailing the Players

Gus Williams, who hails from the Monmouth (Illinois-Missouri League) team, is a husky fellow. He has a great pair of shoulders. And Harry Howell says he is fast.

Charles Fanning, from the Galesburg (Central Association) team, is a tall, rangy fellow. If appearance counts for anything, he's a hit already.

Paul Kricheli, the former Montreal (Eastern League) catcher, is here. He's a big fellow and will make a good fight for a regular berth.

Another former Eastern League receiver, Joe Crisp, from the Newark club, got in Wednesday morning. He's a Kansas Cityan, and they say of him that he'll fight a buzz saw. Like most of the other fellows, he's husky.

W. C. Noyes has forsaken the classroom to become a big league ball player. Noyes attends Chicago University, and originally intended to remain there until June, when school closes. He got in Wednesday. He's a pitcher, and comes from the Kearney (Nebraska League) team.

Joe Lake is also here. He says he wintered well and looks the part. Joe is one of the most popular members of the Browns.

Dan Hoffman is another veteran member of the team who was on hand early. Dan says he's going to try to make the others hustle before crowding him out of a regular job. A bad foot kept him from going at top speed a year ago.

If any of the ball players have a grouch or trouble, they will go to Lloyd H. Rickart. The hustling "Seck" will be a member of the Hot Springs special party.

President Hedges will stay at home until Saturday to talk with Fred Lake and boost "Lefty" George's salary.

For the dear ones at home: The Browns will stop at the Eastman Hotel in Hot Springs.

A big crowd is expected at Union Station Wednesday night to see the Browns off. The fans are hungry for baseball and Sportsman's Park rooters are sure to turn out strong.

Peppery Jimmy Austin, the former Yankee, arrived Wednesday morning. He came with "Red" Nelson and Bert Shotten, the latter an outfielder from the Wheeling (Central League) team.

"One-Round Hogan's the Man I'll Have to Defeat for the Title," Says Nelson

Stubborn Dane Still Insists He's a Factor in Elimination Bouts for Championship.

"ONE-ROUND" HOGAN vs. Oscar Mathew Battling Nelson

This will be the match for the world's lightweight championship which will result from the series of elimination fights, the first of which will be the Wolgast-Brown affair in New York Friday.

Who says so? Why, Oscar Mathew Battling himself. Different by not one single hair than in the heydey of his success, the former champion and one-time recipient of enough pounding to have sunk a Monitor leaned against the sporting editor's desk Tuesday afternoon and one by one eliminated six of the seven men he thinks have a look-in for the title. He eliminated them for what to him was just cause, and only exalted himself because he believes in his present superiority with the same grim tenacity that enabled him to stand a spine-stiffened mass of pulp, taking the relentless pounding of Wolgast.

None of us, perhaps, can believe Bat's story. Nelson is through and all done. We know that he will never again be a man he was because many precedents tell us that they who have gone to the bourne of the down-and-out never return. But while Bat talks, one listens semi-convinced. The explanation is that he believes in himself. Hark to his story:

Watch Mister Hogan.

"THIS 'One-Round' Hogan is the lad that I'll have to beat for the title, before I get through," said Bat reflectively. "An' I've never seen him fight since he got into headlines. I refereed his first professional fight, I guess. And I liked him a lot. He and Packey McFarland are the only two lightweights I've ever taken a shine to as kids.

"How do I know about Hogan? Say, you don't expect a young June bug to grow up a turtle, do you? How do you know a colt is going to be a horse? Why, all he's got to do is grow. Hogan's grown, and I guess he's arrived a real fighter. He promised to be one when a kid.

"Hogan's got the something that gets there. What makes these mankilling benzine things go 90 miles an hour? It's the spark. That's what makes this kid outclass the others. Hogan, I hear, has developed into a fine puncher and a good boxer, game as a pebble.

"I know all the men who are after this title that Wolgast got away from me by accident. And say, while I'm on it, did you ever hear the real, real of how it did get away from me?

Where John Barleycorn Helped.

"WELL, you've heard how old John Barleycorn, alias 'red eye,' has done for many a champion. Well, here's where it made one. Yes, sir. I had Wolgast down and out in the twenty-second round. He couldn't have come back to save his life, between rounds, on his own recuperative powers. But they shocked him with whisky and he came back strong enough to stall it out and recover.

"That's the only time a fighter ever beat the whisky game, that I remember. Even then, if I hadn't held him cheap and had trained faithfully, I would have been able to stick it out and win. And I was willing to take more, at that, you know. A bit tired, but not hurt to speak of, when the referee butted in.

"As to those other lightweights. Beginning with the champion, Wolgast is too poor a boxer to survive the test of meeting that outfit of lightweights waiting for him. He can't lick the boxers, like McFarland, Moran, Welsh and the rest, at their game; and he can't beat me at the rough-house angle. From my standpoint he can't even box with me and win on points. I outpointed him in the early rounds at Port Richmond, didn't I? I can come back, physically, and expect to be at my best in about four months. Then for the title. Wolgast will be easy.

Some of the Good Ones.

"BUT there are some good ones in the bunch. Moran is clever and a fighter. He's erratic, and when he beat me I was not fit to fight. At that I had the best of him until the knockdown, which the referee said was a knockout, although I was up before the referee had tolled off nine. The pictures show that, you remember.

"Besides, Moran is irregular. He hasn't found out yet that every headache of the morning after goes down in old Dame Nature's notebook as a black mark against the constitution. You bet the old girl is there keeping tab. Moran won't be there at all when the gruelling comes. Him I count as Wolgast—a stepping stone to the front.

"Fred Welsh is made up of a head too large for the size hat he wears. He is a fancy stepper and isn't there on these derby finishes. He could outpoint me, no doubt, in a short limited fight. But the thump on the conch begins to addle him up after about fifteen rounds and body blows can finish him. I think little of him, even if he did outpoint the greatest little champion in the world today—Abe Attell.

Wolgast Confident He'll Defeat Brown

NEW YORK, March 1.—Ad Wolgast, champion lightweight of the world, arrived in New York today to put the finishing touches on his training for his 10-round battle with "Knockout" Brown at the National Sporting Club on Friday night. Wolgast has been at work near Philadelphia.

"I am 100 per cent better than when I met Brown before," said Wolgast. "I needed one good fight under my belt and I needed an opportunity to give my injured arm a thorough tryout. This man Brown will think he is hit by a Kansas cyclone on Friday night. I think it is a cinch that I will knock him out."

Believes Newest Frisco Star Will Dim Luster of Wolgast, McFarland and Other Aspirants.

Just a Plain "Dub."

"THEN there's this other English 'wonder,' Matt Wells. His victory over Welsh simply shows that fighter up. Wells was unable to earn salt when in this country before. Third-raters walked through him. Count all these blooming Britons done—they're on the outside looking in on this championship fiesta.

McFarland Can't Weigh In.

"That brings us down to Packy McFarland. Packy will have to unscrew a leg at the hip to get in on a title fight. He can't make the weight. But he's a smart boxer. He is a cold proposition and cuts and tears when he boxes. But I eat that sort of stuff when I'm fit to fight.

"That leaves Brown. This fellow is tough, but he got a lot of pounding when he was 16 years old that'll hurt him likely when he tries to go the route. He's bamfoozled everyone but Hogan with his style in fights not long enough to let them get next.

"In a long battle I can both outlast and outfight him. That right hand style is easily solved. Brown is just a six or ten round youth who has never known the gaff. When he gets it watch him stop. You know his real name's Brownheime. Enuff said."

And that wasn't all Bat told. Nothing short of a double phonograph record could have kept track of it all. But it's enough to show that he believes in himself and has figured out in his own mind just how he is to come back.

The only trouble with Bat is he thinks his audience is as durable as himself.

M'CARTHY TO MEET LUTTBEG IN MATCH

Max Luttbeg, lightweight wrestling champion, will meet Tim McCarthy here March 19, probably at Druids Hall, in a wrestling bout for a side bet. Articles providing a 148-pound weight limit and for a $200 side bet will be signed. The money for the wager is already posted. Luttbeg is best man at his weight, 135 pounds, in the world. He will be conceding McCarty eight or ten pounds on the day of the match.

Next Sunday at the Columbian Athletic Club, Al Wassem, a pupil of Max Luttbeg and the best lightweight in the State, meets Grag in a catch-as-catch-can bout with the strangle and toe hold barred.

ARREL IS ABOUT A COAT

taurant Owner Laments They ere Kicked Over Place Before They Spent a Cent.

illiam C. Fox, treasurer of the St. is Marble and Tile Co., 711 South eighth street, who resides at 2613 South mpton avenue, James L. Mulligan, 33 rs old, of 4542A St. Louis avenue, a l estate man at 101 Missouri avenue, st St. Louis, and James B. Egan, 40 ars old, of 4216 Washington avenue, a perintendent, after being all night th three women at a masquerade all in the Riverside Park Club, were ttacked and beaten at 6:45 o'clock ednesday morning in Hildebrandt's staurant, 2605 Washington avenue, by embers of the Bottoms Gang.

The leaders of the Bottoms Gang who ade the attack were Frank McBride, former fireman, of 4543 McMillan avenue, and John Cotty of 1315 Marcus avenue. Cotty was formerly a bartender in e old West End Club.

Assailants Under Sentence.

McBride and Cotty were recently sentenced to two years each in the penitentiary for shooting James Kent, a egro, July 30, at Jefferson and Washington avenues. They obtained a new rial which is set for March 8 in the riminal Court.

The Riverside Park Club is at 4605 outh Broadway. It is conducted by anny Naughton and Capt. Troll.

Fox, Eagan and Mulligan and the three omen who were with them at the ball, ft there at 6 a. m. in Fox's automobile. When they left Fox could not find his vercoat. He had taken it from the ardrobe and hung it on a chair, and when he looked for it, it was gone.

At the restaurant the three men and the three women were sitting at a table when McBride and Cotty, with George J. Cook, 2000 Morgan street; William Schinnick, 1206 Chambers street; Nellie Wittmer, Jerome Smith, 1822 Rutger street; Walter Kelly, 3414 Rutger street, and four women, came in and sat down at another table. This party had been to the same ball in Riverside Park Club and had come from their in Cotty's automobile.

McBride took off two overcoats, it is said, before he sat down, and Fox exclaimed: "There is my overcoat now."

Fox and the two men who were with him went over to McBride to claim the coat and the trouble began. Hildebrand, the restaurant keeper, said Wednesday morning that he never saw such a fight.

Fight Without Spending Cent.

"Those three men were jumped on by the whole gang that was with McBride," he said. "They knocked the three men down and then kicked them all over the floor. And, just think, it all happened before they had spent a cent in the place."

Five policemen got into the place at once just after the fight began. They were Sergt. Cavanaugh and Patrolmen McKenna, Wamack and Special Officers Hunt and O'Hare.

All the men except McBride were taken to the Dayton Street Station. McBride escaped, but was caught later. Miss Wittmer was the only woman of the party arrested. The others begged the police to let them go.

The three women who were with Fox, Mulligan and Eagen got down upon their knees and with clasped hands uplifted and tears streaming down their faces begged the police to spare them the disgrace of being arrested. They were allowed to go without taking their names.

When those involved in the fight were taken before Judge Pollard in the Day-Street Police Court McBride said he could explain the mystery of the overcoat if a little time was given. The court gave him until Thursday morning and then the cases will be called Coinage of Gold to Stop.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The mints will stop making gold coins as soon as President Taft signs the bill which Congress has passed permitting the Secretary of the Treasury to issue gold certificates against gold bullion and foreign gold coin. Although no more gold will be coined for about three years, there will be plenty on hand.

EVERY FINGER HAS STORY OF ITS OWN

Superintendent's Mishap Is Most Unique of Three Hospital Occurrences.

The superintendent, the doctor and the nurse all met in B 20 at the city hospital Wednesday. B 20 is the surgical division, and the three had come for treatment. Each had a finger tied in a bandage.

"It's my first finger," said Supt. Bauer.

"It's my second finger," said Dr. Charles B. Hobrecht.

"It's my third finger," said the nurse, Miss Hagerman.

"Mine was pricked with a pin," said the nurse.

"I was operating on a man's arm," said the doctor.

The superintendent smiled and looked at his bandaged finger.

"I," he said, "was operating on a bottle of beer, and the glass broke."

MOVABLE THEATER IS LATEST DEVICE IN MIMIC WORLD

Can Be Quickly Put Up and Taken Down and Easily Carried on Tour.

By RIPLEY D. SAUNDERS.

A PORTABLE theater is the latest contribution to the mimic world. It is made of metal, of numbered sections, and can be put up and taken down in an astonishingly short time, also being easy of transportation from place to place.

A Berlin concern already is engaged in the manufacture of these portable theaters, the largest of which are capable of seating from 1500 to 2200 persons, and costing from $16,000 to $20,000. Each playhouse is equipped with its own electric lighting plant, a heating system, and its capacity number of seats.

An agent of the Berlin company is now in this country soliciting orders for his firm's novel product. The "drama on wheels" promises, therefore, to become an accomplished fact of the near future.

IT is said that John McCormack, the Irish tenor now appearing in the Metropolitan Opera House production of Victor Herbert's grand opera, "Natoma," is required to kiss Lillian Grenville, the young soprano, so fervently in that offering that his wife has returned to Ireland rather than see him in so ardent a performance. There is no estrangement between them, and it is said that McCormack offered to resign from the cast of "Natoma" if Mrs. McCormack so desired, but she would not consent to such a sacrifice. McCormack has the role of a young American naval officer and Lillian Grenville that of the daughter of a Spanish grandee. Both were seen and heard at the Coliseum last January in the Philadelphia Grand Opera Company's "Tales of Hoffmann" cast.

"SUMURUN," a music-play without words, is the uncommon entertainment now being enjoyed by London audiences. It is said to be a wonderful production, splendidly acted in pantomime with an orchestral accompaniment. Its story, presented in a series of tableaux, was taken from the "Arabian Nights," Friedrich Freksa being the "author," and Victor Hellaender the score's composer. It tells the love tale of Nur-al-Din, a young cloth merchant, and Sumurun, the wife of an old Arab Sheik, ending with the slaying of the latter by a revengeful hunchback, who then kills himself, the two lovers being united and all ending happily. The players are said to be amazing pantomimic artists and the play's scenic production is described as surpassingly beautiful.

KILL 10 BODY OF DO[G] ATE OATS

Report Is Made After Detective Chief Declares Woman Questioned Innocent.

WILL INVESTIGATE AGAIN

Deputy Coroner Says He Will Recall Jury to Return New Verdict in the Case.

Soon after Chief of Detectives Smith announced Wednesday that he would do nothing further to do with the poisoned oats mystery, and that he was convinced Mrs. Clara Burhenne of 3513 Natural Bridge road was innocent of any connection with it, a report was made to the Coroner's office that nine and one-half grains of arsenic had been found by chemical analysis in 9-year-old Ralph Schneider's stomach and alimentary canal alone. This is enough to kill 10 persons of that age.

A vial containing five grains of the poison was submitted with the report.

Deputy Coroner Carriere announced that the case was not closed. He said he would renew the investigation, and would recall his jury to return a new verdict. The first verdict, returned on superficial investigation, was that Ralph died from ptomaine poisoning.

Looked for Ptomaines.

Ralph's body was exhumed last Saturday at the request of city detectives at work on the mystery, who said they were satisfied that he had died from ptomaines and that chemical analysis woulds how this. The quantitative and qualitative tests were made by Dr. W. F. Abeken under appointment from the Coroner's office.

In his report he says that he examined only the stomach and alimentary canal, and that the poison he found was trioxide of arsenic.

No tests were made of the lower intestines and the liver, which latter is the organ acting as a natural reservoir for poisons in the human system, because Dr. Abeken considered his findings conclusive.

The maximum medicinal dose of trioxide of arsenic for a grown person is ½ of a grain.

Tester Saves Five Grains.

Five grains of arsenic submitted with Dr. Abeken's report was lost in removing the precipitate from the filter when he made the tests. The balance was lost. He tells in his report of the usual precautions taken in these tests. He tested his reagents and found they contained no arsenic, the embalming fluid used on the body and found it contained no arsenic, and made the customary confirmatory tests to verify his finding.

Burhenne was released from police headquarters Tuesday evening after being questioned about a purchase she made of trioxide of arsenic, and admitting it, but saying it was for medicinal purposes. She was questioned also about quarrels she and Mrs. William Schneider, Ralph's mother, had prior to his death.

Eight-year-old Freddie Burhenne, her son, told before she arrived how he had accompanied reporters earlier in the day to E. A. Medler's drug store, at Jefferson avenue and Hebert street, and had told them that a month before his mother had bought there what he called "white ashes." He had pointed out a bottle as the one from which the "white ashes" were taken for his mother.

This bottle contains trioxide of arsenic.

Declines to Discuss It.

The poison register shows that on Jan. 24 a woman who gave her name as "Mrs. Burk" and a fictitious address, bought trioxide of arsenic at this drug store, and that the sale was witnessed by her son, a boy.

When Mrs. Burhenne was questioned about this, she said she had bought the arsenic, but that she intended to use it for medicinal purposes, and threw most of it into the fire.

Chief of Detectives Smith, in giving out this part of her statement (which was taken in secret) would not say what medicinal purpose the woman intended to use the arsenic for.

"Mrs. Burhenne told me what purpose she bought the arsenic for," he said Wednesday, "but I don't care to say what it was. I am satisfied she told me the truth. I am not handling the case today, and have dropped it. I don't care to discuss it further."

Slit in the Oats Box.

In statements to reporters and detectives earlier in the day Mrs. Burhenne said that she had bought a patented compound to kill rats, but denied that she had ever bought arsenic in its pure form. She said she had sometimes visited Medler's drug store, but denied that she had bought arsenic there.

Mrs. Schneider was summoned to headquarters during the questioning, and to Chief Smith she told of the illness of the boys.

Joseph Schneider died Feb. 14 from eating rolled oats containing arsenic. The pasteboard box containing the oats was found on a windowsill in the Schneider home at 3712

Copy of Velasquez painting of Philip IV of Spain which is to be brought to the United States by Henry C. Frick.

Pittsburg Steel Magnate Acquires Masterpiece From Spaniard's Brush.

NEW YORK, March 1.—It became known yesterday that Henry C. Frick has just added to the noted collection of paintings in his Fifth avenue home a three-quarter life size portrait of King Philip IV of Spain, one of the best examples of the work of Velasquez.

Mr. Frick is said to have paid $500,000 for it. The sale ranks as the best of the present year. It eclipses the purchase of another Velasquez, the portrait of the Duke of Olivares, by Mrs. C. P. Huntington last year for $400,000 and given by her to the Hispanic Museum in memory of her husband.

Frick's acquisition figures in the archives of the Royal Palace in Madrid. The story is that the painter secluded himself at Fraga for this task and in a ramshackle hut bent all his energies to it and finished it in three days. Then he sent it to the Queen. That occurred in 1644. The painting went into the palace galleries and when collectors began to write about it they described it as a Parma Velasquez.

LONDON, March 1.—It is reported here that H. C. Frick is the American who offered $500,000 for Lord Lansdowne's famous Rembrandt, "The Mill."

Lord Lansdowne has had several offers for this picture. P. A. B. Widener of Philadelphia went to $350,000 without avail.

It is said that Lansdowne has offered the National Gallery the option of taking the picture at the Frick offer.

PICKEL ALLOWED WIFE $20 A WEEK; TOOK $10 BACK

Witness Testifies in Divorce Case That Husband Borrowed Household Money.

LOVED EMMA SCHULTZ

Mrs. Ernest H. Richardson Says Rich Quarryman's Son Often Sighed for Another.

Frederick J. Pickel, son of a rich quarryman, gave his wife two $10 gold pieces every Saturday night for the household and her personal expenses, but almost invariably borrowed one of them back about Monday or Tuesday, according to testimony Friday in Mrs. Ella Mulholland Pickel's suit for separate maintenance.

The witness was Mrs. Ernest H. Richardson of 5568 Waterman avenue, a friend of Mrs. Pickel's, who was known in the coterie of which they were members as "Tracy, the Outlaw." Her maiden name was Tracy.

"When Mrs. Pickel complained that she could not clothe herself and little Freddie and run the house and pay the maid on $10 a week," Mrs. Richardson testified, "her husband would accuse her of extravagance. I know that she was not extravagant, because I have been shopping with her, and she was a great bargain hunter.

"She made nearly all her own clothes, and Mrs. Pickel used to send her cast-off garments to be made over for herself. As a matter of fact Mrs. Pickel was much more concerned about her son's appearance than her own.

"Ella was left alone at night four or five times a week. Mr. Pickel drank and often stayed away all night. I remember one night we were dining on the Hamilton Hotel roof garden, and she rebuked him for something disrespectful he said about a woman at one of the tables. He got into a huff, and Mrs. Pickel had to go home alone.

"I have often heard Mr. Pickel say that he was sorry he had married Ella. He said he ought to have married Emma Schultz and that she was the only woman he ever loved.

"He told Ella she could get out of the house if she didn't like his ways, but that she couldn't take Freddie along. He spoke of her kin folks as 'the Mulholland trash,' and wouldn't let her mother come into the house. He even objected when he heard she had been seen on the street with her sister, Florence."

Mrs. Richardson was the only witness at the morning session. The suit is being tried in Judge Muench's court.

Among other things, Mrs. Pickel alleged against her husband was that he shot craps with men friends on the dining-room table until early morning.

Pickel filed a new answer to the suit Wednesday, in which he averred that when he and his wife separated, June 22, last, he supposed she was just going to Chicago on a little visit. He declares he accompanied her to the Union Station and kissed her good-by there, and that he didn't know it was a separation until a little later, when her lawyer called him up on the telephone to say that Mrs. Pickel had left him and would not return.

Pickel filed a suit to divorce his wife, declaring that she drank too much, but it was dismissed.

EMPLOYE DEAD IN LIGHT PLANT NEAR ELECTRIC SWITCH

For eight hours Tuesday night and Wednesday morning John Boland, 43 years old, 3009 Easton avenue, lay dead or dying in a passageway near the switchboard on the third floor of the Union Electric Light and Power Co.'s plant at the foot of Ashley street.

Boland was a porter at the plant. His day's work was done at 5:30 p. m. Tuesday, but his body was not discovered until 1:30 a. m. Wednesday by Arthur Webb, a watchman.

Webb called an ambulance and had Boland taken to the dispensary, where Dr. Royston pronounced him dead. The physician was unable to say whether an electric shock or natural causes had produced death. There were no marks on the body.

Boland was married but had not been living with his wife. He had no children. The body is at the morgue.

NEGRO ASSISTANT ATTORNEY-GENERAL WAS HARVARD STAR

By Wire From the Washington Bureau of the Post-Dispatch.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—William Henry Lewis, a negro, of Boston, who was appointed Assistant Attorney-General of the United States, first sprang into the limelight in 1892 as a member of the Harvard football team. He was born in Berkeley, Va., in 1868. His parents had been slaves.

In 1888 he entered Amherst College, where he won distinction for athletics and scholorship. He received a degree at Amherst in 1891 and the following fall entered the Harvard law school. He played center in the varsity team in '92 and '93 and was chosen for the all-American football team and was rated one of the greatest players of the day.

A year ago he entered the United States Immigration Service as legal adviser for the Boston office.

THE END IN SIGHT.

The vote on the resolution to submit to the States for ratification the constitutional amendment for the popular election of senators was only four votes short of the necessary two-thirds. The vote was 54 for and 33 against the resolution. Party lines were unheeded. Such stanch Republicans as Guggenheim and Cullom voted for it; such regular Democrats as Money and Tillman voted against it.

But significance attaches to the fact that these "lame ducks" voted against it: Burrows, Bulkeley, Depew, Dick, Flint, Hale, Kean and Scott. None of them will be in the next Congress. Five of them will be succeeded by Democats and two by insurgent Republicans.

At the end of 17 years of continuous effort the end is fairly in sight. Five times since 1894 the House has approved the resolution and as often the Senate has beaten it. Of the preponderance of public sentiment in favor of the popular election of senators there is no question. Thirty States have some form for their direct nomination; 29 have passed resolutions demanding submission of the amendment, although 15 of them are in questionable legal form. Action by enough State legislatures to force submission is assured. But the chance is the Sixty-second Congress will vote for submission of the amendment.

The vote against the popular election of senators coupled with the vote for Lorimer corruption characterizes the present Senate and explains why so many members are going home to stay.

A PUBLIC WELFARE BILL.

Speaking of the Municipal Courts bill, Senator Kinney said to a Post-Dispatch reporter: "I have been in a position to see many of the abuses which exist in the justice of the peace and police court system in St. Louis. I am giving the bill close study and there will be time enough to define my position when it comes before the Senate."

Knowing the abuses of the present system, Senator Kinney is in position to tell the Senate the truth about the system. He could not do the people of St. Louis a greater service than to tell it. It is his duty to tell it. It is his duty also to do all in his power to relieve the people of St. Louis of the abuses of a system established to administer justice under the laws for the masses of the people who are cut off from a hearing in the circuit courts. It would be all the more evidence of Senator Kinney's courage and increasing capacity for public service if he should reverse his position of two years ago. A change of mind through new and better views of public obligation and personal duty is creditable to a public man.

Gov. Hadley, whose legal training and experience should give him a clear view of the merits of the bill and of the pressing need of the reform, says he has expressed no opinion concerning the measure. The Governor ought to have and ought to express an opinion on the bill. It is well worth a message to the Legislature emphasizing its importance to the people of the State's metropolis. We cannot believe that the Governor takes his opinion or his cue of silence from the Republican spoils bosses of this city who have shown their willingness to sacrifice every consideration of the public welfare to partisan advantage.

The issue of public welfare against personal and partisan gain is so clearly presented in this bill that none can be deceived in it. St. Louis members of the Legislature who oppose the bill will have to answer to the people of the city for their action.

A "sweeping victory" is the phrase used by the local Republican organ to describe the triumph of the Kiel majority faction in the Republican committee. It was as "sweeping" as the faction leaders wanted it to be; they held the broom.

COUNCILMAN CRUNDEN—WHAT?

Councilman Crunden expressed astonishment that there should be publicity concerning the Fels-Goldman dinner in a public restaurant. He insisted that it was a private affair about which nothing should be published and to insure absolute privacy he put up a screen between the two distinguished remodelers of society and the public eye. He asked the newspapers to suppress all news of the event.

The governments of two continents with all their police forces have been unable to suppress Emma Goldman and the single tax never caused a louder noise than Joseph Fels. No power on earth can keep either out of the newspapers. Both are masters of the art of publicity. If the Councilman should give a Goldman-Fels dinner in a 2000-foot coal mine and hermetically seal the shaft there would be an earthquake.

What is the matter with Councilman Crunden? Is he deeper than we suspected or does he really believe in fairies?

There was a thrilling play about the bandit adventures of the James boys, which filled a local theater last week. This week a train is robbed in the city limits. Is it a coincidence or a consequence?

FIREMEN'S HOURS AND PAY.

In presenting their appeal for increased pay to the Municipal Assembly, St. Louis firemen submit statistics from 17 cities which show that the salaries in St. Louis are $60 a year lower than the average of the list.

The petition is fortified by a comparison in hours of service and length of furloughs which shows a much greater difference against St. Louis. If there is no hope of rules which will give heed first of all to the fact that Fire Department employes are men with the right obligations of men and the same title to home life as other persons, there should be no hesitation about increasing their compensation.

The St. Louis fireman is on duty an average of 18 hours out of every 24 the year through. With every tenth day off his service hours for the other nine are practically 21 out of 24. Considered in connection with the quality of men desired and the hazards incident to the work, $1140 a year for privates is very modest and the $1300 asked for is far from extravagant.

Fixing hours and wages for firemen is no easy task. The ideal solution of the problem may never be reached. But it is plain that St. Louis has not solved it well at all. The appeal is worthy of earnest consideration.

There will be no appropriation for the Missouri Immigration Commission this year. It has been inducing Republicans as well as Democrats to settle in the State.

CANADIANS AS CUSTOMERS.

In advance of the Canadian census which will be taken this year, the New York World estimates that the population of Canada has increased from 5,371,000 in 1901 to about 7,000,000. As Canada is "now receiving more immigrants in a year than formerly in 10," the World considers it possible that Canadian expectations of 8,000,000 people may be realized by this year's census.

As reciprocity with from 7,000,000 to 8,000,000 ordinary customers, means more business and increased profits for all concerned, the increase in Canada's population is an important consideration. Miss Emma Goldman has convinced Miss Alice Martin that there is something wrong with the world. Now Miss Goldman will have to sit up with the world only every other night.

Six policemen, two burglars and 39 shots with no other result than a bullet through a policeman's trousers. How decadent is the art of shooting when there are no bystanders!

Young Mr. Phillips, State Senator from this city, shows a decided tendency to blow up—a dangerous tendency in youthful statesmen.

There is an opportunity for a strong opposition council ticket.

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

Best Location for Capitol.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

When the people of a state are asked to give from three to five million dollars for the erection of a public building, which is to be an expression in architecture of their love and loyalty to their state, it seems only fair that such a structure should be situated where it can be enjoyed by the greatest number of people.

Now, against the few thousand citizens of Jefferson City, plus the legislators and the people whose interest in some bill may take them there, are the hundreds of thousands who live in St. Louis, the trainloads of travelers who come into the Union Station every day, and who often spend hours in the city between trains, the merchants who come to St. Louis to buy goods from all over this and adjoining states, the many, many people who attend conventions held in our city, from all parts of the United States and elsewhere, nearly, if not all, of these people would be interested in seeing the Capitol of Missouri, the fourth city in the Union, in wealth and resources. By building the Capitol in St. Louis it could be viewed and studied by these thousands, which would not be the case if it is tucked away in a town with only one railroad running into it.

Now, another thing: Students from abroad, who come to this country, are astounded, often, at the ignorance of the most of Americans of their own government. Here is an immense number of students from high schools, academies, colleges and universities, who, if the Capitol were built here, would have the opportunity of seeing the making of the laws under which they live. A. M. E.

Sunday Mail Delivery.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

As well stop the railroad trains on Sundays as stop mail deliveries. As well stop the trolley cars on Sundays or the Sunday newspapers as stop Sunday mails. As well stop telegraph dispatches on Sundays as stop Sunday mails.

The great trouble is we do not have sufficient mail deliveries on Sundays. This Government is rich enough to put on all the extra labor needed. Why not ask for an appropriation to put on extra labor and deliver mail Sundays as well as any other day? There are plenty of good, reliable men out of work.

According to the petition the Postmaster has asked me to sign it is his desire to shorten our lives just one-seventh. Why not look at this proposition in the right light? No higher authority is needed than the Constitution of the United States. If someone will state some sane and intelligent reason why the United States Government should stop the delivery of mail on Sundays, I will sign the petition the Postmaster has asked me to sign.

The mail service on Sundays is inadequate and should be materially improved. There should be mail delivered to the business and residential sections on Sundays. OSCAR DANE.

Spitting on Cars.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Coming downtown this morning I noticed a warm-air fiend on the front seat near the stove. One of those fellows who dislikes the good fresh air. He was making it his long suit to see how much he could spit on the floor. All the windows were closed and the air in the car was hot. A good place for germs to get fat.

Any man who will spit on the floor of a street car has not sense enough to pour water out of a boot.

The law should be enforced in regard to spitting in street cars. J. PATTERSON.

Our Wandering Smoke Cloud.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

I live in O'Fallon, Ill. There are about 2500 of us here, peaceful and law-abiding; but we believe in home rule for all cities. We do not desire to meddle with the affairs of your city, and will not do so unless said affairs interfere with our own plans.

Now I wish to inform you that we have a very serious grievance. That "rain of soot" for which St. Louis was responsible, came right over our city and caused more consternation than Halley's comet did. Many of our venerable citizens looked into the sky and shook with fear. Some said a terrible storm was coming. Others said it was an eclipse, while others said it was certain that the end of the world was near. As all are likely to recover from the fright, we propose to drop the matter this time, with the warning to Smoke Inspector Parker that this must not happen again. If it does we will come over and "show him" a smoke picture that will make him sit up and take notice. We will start something so close to him that he will think there is not only smoke but a fire in his immediate neighborhood.

Now, Mr. Editor, if your city prefers to continue the smoke nuisance you must keep it on your own side of the river IRATE CITIZEN.

Street Car Ventilation.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch.

Inquiry discloses a rule of the Transit company instructing conductors to leave the sheds with four transoms of the car open, two on each side, but the rule also specifies that the transoms may be closed by the conductor upon the complaint of a passenger. The latter provision practically nullifies the good effect or the good intention of the rule, and it is my observation that cars with transoms open are very few. A SENATE DECORATION.

ALSO IN CHINA.

From the China National Review.

"In Hankow and Wuchang new courts of justice are being established and the yamen runners are now greatly concerned as to what is to become of them. They have petitioned the magistrates to be taken on in connection with the new institutions, but as yet they have only received good words and no arrangements have been made for their future. Still, it is better that these blood-suckers and their families should weep, than that all the families in town should have to weep on account of their exactions, as at present."

This is the comment of one of the Hankow Chinese papers on the new judiciary regime that is being established throughout the Empire. It is inevitable that offences will come, but woe unto him to whom the offence cometh in such a cause as this. Every day brings evidence that the nation is moving forward, not only in matters concerning the judiciary but also in every other direction. Vested interests are bound to suffer, they always do, and from these alone is opposition to be expected.

VEGETABLE FANCY WORK.

From the Youth's Companion.

Little Mrs. Bride had almost everything to learn about housekeeping, but she was so enthusiastic in her interest that everyone was glad to help her.

"I have some particularly fine asparagus," the marketman told her one day, and he displayed a bunch for her admiration. "Picked not three hours ago," he added.

Mrs. Bride looked at it with unaffected amazement.

"Does it grow like that?" she asked. "I always supposed the cook oraided the ends of it."

Cut Rates.

From the Detroit Free Press.

"It will cost us 7 cents a bottle to prepare this remedy," announced the head chemist to his employer.

"Good; put it up in packages bearing the words: 'Price $1 at all drug stores.'"

"But"—

"Sell it to the trade at 42 cents a bottle, and the trade can sell it at 85 cents. The public expect cut-rates on all standard remedies nowadays and we've got to give them what they want."

ROBIN.

"Good morning to you, Robin—
Where are you from today?"
"I am in from Dixie,
A thousand miles away.
The flowers there are blooming,
And sunny is the sky,
But the south wind came a-wooing,
And here, alas, am I!

"You cannot guess how gallant
A troubadour was he,
Or half the sweetness of the song
That quite persuaded me.
He sang of daisies gleaming
Along the water's brim,
And Nature singing all the day
An I should fly with him.

"Before his gentle blandishments
Discretion faltered dumb.
And Reason toppled from her throne
The while he bade me come.
He sang of old familiar spots
He knew would give me pain,
And O, how tenderly he plead
To take me back again!

"You cannot guess how lovely
He made it all appear,
And what abundance great of worms
He said were waiting here.
The flowers there are blooming,
And sunny is the sky,

ANOTHER TACK.

If the Legislature is insensible to the higher appeal of sportsmanship, probably it could be induced to give us game protection on the ground of economics.

The average cost of a wild duck in Missouri is about $5. This $5 is removed from a center of wealth to a non-center of wealth. It buys quinine, entices the doctor into the swamp, leads the children off to the little red schoolhouse, and shoos the wolf away from the door. The reason we don't have famines in Missouri as they have them in India is that India has no hunters whose pastime it is to go into the wild and malarial places and help the good people of those districts flag the bread boat.

"Yes," said Mike. "I have to work 18 hours a day. We're short of men up here."—Missouri Sharpshooter.

It is proposed to move the Subtreasury down near the river. Why not take it all the way down to the river and put a gunboat in the harbor to guard it? This would at once render the money safe and justify the local gunboat, neither of which desiderata has been doing well of late.

Cost of Courting Has Gone Up, Too

Many Young Men Cannot Consider the Cost of Matrimony, Says Editor Arthur T. Vance in an Interview for the Post-Dispatch

By Marguerite M. Marshall.

"THE cost of courting has gone up along with the price of eggs and carrots and porterhouse steak.

"A girl today hates to have people think her fiance is cheap. There are hundreds whose pride stands between them and inexpensive attentions.

"Yet courting is really not a matter of cost—but of the girl."

Arthur T. Vance, editor of the Pictoral Review, speaks these words of twentieth century wisdom in a current issue of his magazine. I asked Mr. Vance for the why and the wherefore of his discoveries of Cupid's high tariffs.

"I've heard some curious comments since I wrote that article on "The Cost of Courtship,' he mused. "Seasoned New Yorkers have told me, with a sort of sad pride, that such conditions only obtained in New York. On the other hand, I have had letters from people in small towns all over the country saying that I had exactly described the situation in their own locality.

"Personally, I am inclined to be of the opinion that the cost of courting has ascended by leaps and bounds all over America, except in the remote rural districts. And it is one of the most disturbing of all our social phenomena.

"ONE hears much about economic hardship of marriage and of family life. It is said that young men shrink apprehensively from the increased cost of maintaining a home, with the general rise in price of various necessities. I think there is truth in the assertion. When a man marries a girl he binds himself to support her for life, to say nothing of the children that may come. On even as small a salary as $25 a week he can maintain a very comfortable bachelor existence. With a wife and family, he must scrimp and contrive and deny himself not only luxuries, but comforts, if he lives in a large city, at least.

"But there is many a young man who never gets as far as a consideration of the cost of matrimony. He is staggered by the more prelude to the show, the cost of courtship.

"He tries 'going with' one or two girls and draws back in panic. He simply cannot afford the acquaintance of the class of young women in which he would care to marry."

"Please illustrate," said I.

He nodded easily. "Suppose a young man wants to take a girl to the theater. First he must send her flowers, no little 50-cent bunch of violets from a street boy, either, but a box of roses from a ... shop. He can't get out of 'this ... than $2. Then only the best ... the theater will do, which ... at least $4 more.

"The young man is a real sport he ... all for his beloved in a taxi—and ... expenditures which may be any... from $2 to $6. Finally, after the ... there is supper in a popular res..., which must break a big hole ... five-dollar bill. Altogether, the ... fellow will be compelled to spend ... $10 and $15 for an evening's entertainment, and that doesn't leave much out of an $18 to $25 a week salary, does it?"

"DON'T you think it rather takes the bloom off romance," added Mr. Vance, "to delegate it to the parquet circle and the taxicab? Yet for the sake of attending fashionable theaters, eating in tawdry restaurants, wearing expensive flowers, displaying ribbon-decked boxes of marroons laces, riding in taxis with men above her financial class, or beneath her intellectually, many a girl will forgo altogether the joys of courting."

"But I think a great many girls would be perfectly willing to have less money spent on them, only they don't know how to speak about it to the young men," I remarked.

"That is undoubtedly true," he agreed. "You see trouble is it's a game of bluff on both sides. The young man wants to pretend he has a bigger salary than is really coming to him. The girl desires to convey the impression that she is used to all the luxuries of life. On the one hand it's the bluff of business position, on the other, that of social position. And between two bluffs the pocketbook falls.

"Only I think the greater responsibility rests on the girl. The bete noir of the average decent young chap is stinginess. He will do anything to avoid such an imputation. But even if he doesn't tell the girl the size of his salary, she is apt to know about what it is if she knows him long.

"Then let her say to him, tactfully but frankly, "Tom, I enjoy your company just as much in a trolley car as I do in a taxi. And I don't care for supper after the show; I'd rather go home and get my beauty sleep.' The boy's feelings won't be hurt; he'll simply dub her mentally, if not audibly, a 'real trump,' and furthermore he can't help but be insensibly flattered that she likes to go with him for himself and not for his tribute money.'

"How do you account for this sudden rise in courtship liabilities?" I inquired.

"It begins back in the school days," said Mr. Vance. "Children are given too large allowances and permitted to spend money foolishly. They acquire the habit then of 'throwing the bluff' and aping the crowd. Imitation is to blame for much extravagant romance. Sensible young people watch foolish ones and then are moved to go and do likewise—like the rest of 'our set.'"

"Don't you think the business woman who has learned the worth of money, will stem the tide of costly courtship?"

"She might. Only she is often situated somewhat in the position of the bachelor, with no one but herself on which to spend her income. Therefore she dresses smartly, and rather expects a man to entertain her up to the clothes she buys. On the other hand, she is in a fair way to cultivate a certain frank comradeship that will do much toward solving the money troubles of the modern Cupid."

The Helmet Hat Is Latest of Fashion Freaks

New Ideas in Millinery Seen by an Observer for the Post-Dispatch in a Tour of New York Shops.

NOW it's the helmet hat," but do not protest till you see one. They sound worse than they are. As a matter of fact, the helmet hat is really pretty; one of the few fashions that does not look as though it had been designed by some bank president in a last effort to convince his investigators he was crazy.

The first helmet hat I saw was on a model. She had blond hair and pink cheeks. Probably she would have been chic with a copper pot on her head. In the helmet hat she was ravishing. Now, though they will come, probably in about four weeks, when we shall all be called upon to bear with every conceivable, gross exaggeration of the style, I shall remember that first helmet hat I saw—and be glad.

The straw was black Milan; a fine braid with a high gloss. It had been marvelously wrought till in contour and manner of making it absolutely resembled a steel helmet of the fifteenth century. A soft gray plume, shading darker toward the end, waved at the back. The lining was of cerise silk, exquisitely fitted into place.

If the lining of the American woman's head was as neat as the lining of that hat we would no longer have a divorce problem.

And here is a point to be remembered. The helmet hat has both lines and style, yet it did NOT have its origin in Paris. It is an American product. Charles C. Kurzman, in whose showroom the helmet hat is on exhibition, has just returned from abroad, but he did not bring it with him.

"The idea first came to us from some plates we obtained of the Spitzer collection of arms and armor," Mr. Kurzman explained, "and also, the arms and armor loan collection belonging to George J. Gould, Clarence Mackay, J. P. Morgan and others now being shown in the Metropolitan Muesum. The helmet hats may be compared with helmets in either of these collections and it will be proved how accurately the lines have been followed."

All of which is perfectly true. But to see the cold steel and iron, moulded in warlike simplicity, one would not guess there were the models from which came such gracious reproductions.

Take for example one white Tagal, or Belgian split straw, hat in lines not unlike the helmets of our policemen. A flat scroll work of white straw edged with black ornaments the front and back. A plate of Empire blue silk outlined with straw is on the front. The little disk resembles the number plate of a member of the tariff squad. So much so it seems bare without the printed numerals. However, some enterprising New Yorker will sooner or later see the possibilities and rent the space for advertising purposes.

Although plumes are not shown to any great extent as trimming, there is a novelty plume for dress hats known as the Conteau Espagnole, or Spanish knife plume, but the good old willow plumes maintain the Coucau Espagnole, a very soft plume wired to curve upward in a crescent, follows the identical lines of a Spanish instrument of war.

The uneducated person, however, is irresistibly reminded by it of a sky terrier's tail. One could not but expect it to wag were its wearer pleased.

Wings, velvet and lace are used to trim most of the hats, although the Empire and garden hats would not be complete without flowers.

Where Women Are Porters.

IN Bayreuth, where the yearly festivals of Wagner opera are given, the villagers do many things to profit by the influx of visitors from all parts of the world. The unusual avocation of porter is adopted by not a few of the native women of the village during this period. It is indeed a strange sight to a Westerner to see women carrying heavy luggage from hotel to depot for men as well as for women tourists.

Two stalwart, strong looking men travelers were leaving Bayreuth after having heard the cycle of operas. They walked to the depot, as many visitors do, followed by a frail looking little woman carrying two suitcases in each hand, besides canes and umbrellas, and when the train was reached she preceded the men into the car stagering under her burden. After she had received her fee she departed hurriedly in search of an other job before the train left, said the Chicago Tribune.

It was a strange sight to an American to see a woman working as porter, but the women of Bayreuth are glad to do all they can in this way during the brief season of opera. It enables them to make extra money which these thrifty Germans know how to use to the best advantage.

They get only a small fee for each trip, but as they get several each daily during the summer, it amounts to a fair sum for the season.

THE BOSS

Novelized From Edward Sheldon's Play, By Albert Payson Terhune.

SYNOPSIS OF PRECEDING CHAPTERS.

Michael Regan, an ex-barkeeper, has seized all the grain handling business in a big lake port city and has grown rich by ill-using his employes. Among the victims of his financial deals are Homer and Donald Griswold, father and son. Donald learns with disgust that his sister Emily has met Regan and that she rather admires him. She is horrified at hearing of the man's true character. Regan offers to save Griswold from bankruptcy and prison in return for Emily's hand in marriage. To save her father Emily consents, but stipulates that she'll be Regan's wife in name only. After the marriage Donald incites Regan's laborers to strike. The strikers win. In revenge Regan plans to foreclose all his mortgages in the district where the strikers live; and to ruin the whole city's industries by shifting the grain trade to Montreal. Emily begs him to abandon these schemes.

CHAPTER IX.

The Mercy of the Merciless.

EMILY stared at her husband as though at some wild animal which she saw for the first time. Little by little she began to understand the nature of his threats and to realize how fully capable he was to enforce them.

The city was wholly built upon the mighty grain trade. Without that prop it would be like a deserted Western "boom town." Should Regan fulfill his threat to turn the life-giving flood of wheat to Montreal, Emilly's home city would become desolate, impoverished, void of excuse for existence. Its business interests—from palace to hovel—would crumble into nothingness. Ruin would stalk abroad unchecked.

Should Regan still further carry out his threat to foreclose all his countless Fourth Ward mortgages, the families which Emily had so long toiled to make better and happier must be driven into penniless, hopeless misery. The future of her city, of her beloved poor, hung absolutely upon this man's mercy—upon the mercy of the merciless. Futile as she felt the effort to be, she flew to their defense.

"But, Michael!" she entreated. "These are the people who MADE you—the people whose work you owe everything. You CAN'T treat them like this! You can't do this terrible thing you're planjust to gratify your own miserable little ideas of revenge."

"Revenge!" he yelled, jumping up. "That's the word! Revenge! I've got 'em all in the hollow of my hand. An' I'll squeeze till you can hear their boner crack. Till there ain't a breath of life left in 'em or in this measly city neither. I've GOT 'em!"

"You shall not!" she flashed. "I married you to keep these poor people from being ruined. I gave up a great deal when I brought myself to marry you, Michael. And now I'm not going to see my sacrifice turned to dust and ashes and rendered useless. I'"—

"Well?" growled Regan. "How are you goin' to help it? Hey?"

"I don't know! I don't know! I don't know anything except—except that I am your wife—your wife, Michael—and you can't do this terrible thing you're planning. You CAN'T! As you wife I"—

"It's a lie!" he raged, her words strangely rousing him. "It's a black lie! You call yourself my 'wife?' You're not my wife, an' you know it! Lord, but you've got nerve to call yourself that!"

He broke into a short, ugly, mirthless laugh; a laugh that seemed more like a cry of pain.

"My wife?" he raged. "That's a swell line of talk. I guess if I had a wife I might think differently about lots of things. If I had a wife I might not think I had the right to do anything my missus felt so strong against as you feel about this Montreal business or the mortgages. But—what have YOU ever done that I should pay any 'tention to your wishes? Hey? Answer me that, you! You've built a wall around yourself to keep me away! An'—it's been strong enough to do it. I've been kept at arm's length, all right!"

"Michael! I"—

"Be still! When I've come home from the office dead tired or blue or crazy to talk over some big scheme with someone who'd understand, have you ever handed me a friendly word or a civil look? Not you! An' the few times I've scraped up pluck enough to say 'good mornin' ' to you have you ever so much as thawed out? Why, I've seen you grin pleasant-like at that fool butler of yours an' slip him a kindly word as if he was almost human—which he ain't. But have you ever done so much for me—your own husband? No, not you. You've let me live alone in the house here with you, day after day, night after night—sufferin' and cravin' for one word, one look from you, till sometimes I've wished, through the black night hours that the mornin' would find me dead. Why, often I've felt as if"—

"Michael!" she broke in, "you know"—

"You're sorry for these measly strikers, are you?" he stormed on. "Well, let me tell you right here, there ain't a one of 'em that hasn't got more'n I have. I don't care if they're cold an' hungry an' the roof leaks an' there's no coal. They've got more'n me. There ain't a man of 'em but what's got someone to love him, someone to care if he wins or loses. But how about ME? You've held back from me everything a human being has a right to. My rights, my feelin's—my mercy—means most in the world—the best things Gawd ever gave to us men—you've denied me all of 'em! An', on top of that, tell me now where you get the nerve to call yourself my WIFE?"

He paused, hoarse and shaking from his outburst of incoherent fury. His rough plea had moved the woman strangely. Yet she made shift to fall back upon her habitual reserve in answering him.

"You have no right to talk to me like this," she declared. "Have you forgotten the bargain we made before I married you? I have not forgotten it, even if you have. And I have lived up to every word of it. I have done every single thing I promised to. I have taken care of your house, I have entertained your guests, I have helped your social ambitions, I"—

"Drop it!" he growled. "I guess that'll be about all from you! The 'bargain' is"—

"No," she contradicted, "that is not all. There's something more. I have done what I thought was right. But I—I didn't realized you felt this way about it. Honestly, I didn't, Michael. But since you DO, I am willing to—to go on—to—I am willing," she ended, shyly, "to make another bargain."

"Another bargain!" he repeated dryly. "What are you gettin' at?"

"I'm willing to change—to be different toward you—to"—

"Different?" he snarled. "Say, cut that out! I can't stand much more today."

"But—but don't you want me to—to be different? To treat you more"—

"Oh, you know it, girl!" he muttered, "you KNOW it. I"—

"Very well," she said. "I will."

"What's that?" he demanded. "Say it again!"

"If you will give up this dreadful plan of revenge—if you will stay here and take your beating like a man, and not ruin this city and the poor people who are in your power"—

"Go!" he panted thickly, his great body trembling as with an ague. "Go! Get out of here while you've got the chance! Some day I am liable to go off my head an' kill you if you talk like that, I"—

"I mean it, I mean it!" she protested, taking an involuntary step toward him. In another instant she was lifted bodily from the floor, crushed in the tight embrace of his mighty arms; his breath, hot, tobacco laden, beating against her cold cheek, his rough, unshaven face pressed to hers.

"Emily!" he was crying incoherently. "Oh, I'd go through the red flames for all eternity just for the sake of this! To feel my arms around you, girl—to know you care—after all these black months! Oh, it's heaven, sweetheart! Don't tremble like that! It's all right! I love you! I LOVE YOU!"

He kissed her over and over again—the quick, uncouth kisses of a man unused to giving or receiving caresses. In his ecstacy he did not note that she was quivering with horror at his touch; that she was seeking with all her frail strength to draw back from that terrible embrace.

"You love me!" he exclaimed in eager triumph. "You love me, girl. An' I never guessed it. Oh, this is worth livin' for! I"—

"Let me go!" she screamed in utter repulsion. "Let me go, I say!"

"No!" he laughed eagerly, holding her the closer. "You love me. An' "—

"I don't!" she denied. "I loathe you! I hate you! Oh, let me go!"

The stark contempt and horror in her voice pierced the hot mists of his infatuation. Wonderingly, dazed, he loosened the grip of his powerful arms about the quivering body. On the instant she tore herself free and backed away from him—scarlet, sick with disgust.

"You—you love me," insisted Regan, trying by sheer force of will to keep his vision of happiness from fading as suddenly as it had been born. "You love me. An' "—

"How dare you say so!" she demanded. "You know it is not true."

"Not true?" he echoed dully. "Then, why"—

"I explained it clearly," she replied. "You complained that I treated you coldly, that I avoided you, that I never give you a civil word or a kindly look. Well, I am willing to change all that, to be kinder to you, to treat you more as you say you wish to be treated. But it is not because I love you. For I don't and I never shall. It is just because I want to save the people you mean to ruin. It is another bargain, as I said. A bargain by which I"—

"Oh!"

It was an inarticulate roar that seemed to rend the man's very soul. Before its wild intensity the girl shrank back, afraid.

"Oh, you don't need to go over it again!" he broke in, fiercely. "Don't you s'pose I understand? An' do you s'pose I want you if those are the terms you come to me on? I guess you don't know much about real grown men if you did you'd never try to work such a deal as that. You'd never have tried to make me feel ashamed of you."

"Ashamed?" she echoed, incredulously.

"Yes," he retorted, "ashamed!" Oh, you never thought it could come to that, did you? Well, it has. You are the holy and wonderful girl who saved her dad from jail and her slum friends from the poorhouse by marryin' me. An' I'm the dirty crook an' grafter that you an' this whole town despise. But, good as you are an' bad as I am, I'm better than you are. An' I've the right to be ashamed of you for offerin' me such a dirty bargain."

She waited to hear no more. Her face burning with indignation and shame, she turned from him and almost ran from the room. She was scarcely gone when the door from the office burst open and a man—hatless, disheveled, panic-stricken—dashed into the room.

What Every Husband Knows

Written for the Post-Dispatch

By Sophie Irene Loeb.

MEN may come and men may go, but the nagging woman goes on forever! So does the husband go on forever—AWAY from her. ...d the wise wee wife the other day ...perience brings the wisdom):

"Really, it is no use HARPING about ...ings. Men WON'T listen. I used to ...t cross and then I would 'let it out' ... Henry. I never THOUGHT I was ...eping the thing up, even though he ...ew my attention to it.

"At first he used to ANSWER, but ...nally he took it WITHOUT saying a ...ord. Then he would be away so much ...at I slowly but finally came to the ...alization that the fault was MINE. ...as I truly a so-called 'NAGGER?' I ...ad not thought so.

"However, after a little self study ...and a few Hamlet's Soliloquies I ...ame to the conclusion that 'to be or ...ot to be'—that was the question, indeed. Needless to say that I settled it ...and let the question go."

Just so. Every husband knows that if ever in his existence comes that "what's-the-use" feeling it is when the woman he has chosen to GO THROUGH LIFE with keeps up a tirade of abuse with no PROSPECT of ceasing.

Straightaway in his brain there passes the panorama of WHAT MIGHT HAVE BEEN and SHOULD BE and ISN'T, until he wishes he was never born. Gradually if the thing goes on they say he gets USED to it, but in reality he follows the line of least re... says little, thinks a lot and ...s ways and means for ES... the time.

...on escaping. Then the ... awakening comes. The ...ughness. Eve discourses to the desert ...r. The magnet that DREW him has ...en REVERSED, and the closed end ... the horseshoe is turned toward him. ...hen the woman wonders WHY she is ...glected.

But on the other hand every husband knows that the woman who knows WHEN to stop, if she but knew it, has the KEY to the situation—ANY situation.

Nagging is as old as the hills. No doubt it entered into the Garden of Eden, and Eve, seeing what she had done, used her woman's prerogative and made Adam suffer for it. For, sister dear, we must admit that it is really a WOMANISH trait.

When you come down to rock bottom it gets one nothing but heartache and distemper and LONELINESS. And by and by it gets to be such an OLD story, like that of the man who having fallen asleep during one of his better three-quarters' scolding suddenly awoke and asked: "Are you still scolding, or have you begun again?"

It is a truth that nine times out of ten the cases that come up in the marital court are the result of the NAGGER.

The joy of life lies in giving or receiving—EXCEPT in the matter of scolding. There is no pleasure EITHER way. Life is so short and scolding so long to the recipient—the NAGGEE; while to the nagger it is the other way about. Both are UNHAPPY. Who wants to be unhappy in this big, growing world of ours?

Therefore if nagging interferes with the busines of happiness, why, it is so easy to just CUT IT OUT. It's worth a try, anyway.

THE MAGNET THAT DRAWS THE WIFE'S WAY IS CHARGED WITH THE SUBSTANCE OF CONSIDERATION.

About Women—By a Man.

I HAVE often thought that I would like to try the experiment of loving the same woman twice—but I have never dared to give up the time to it.

I spent yesterday with the cleverest girl in all the world. It has taken me all the time since then to recover from the conviction of my own importance.

The length of time it takes to get around a girl's waist is not always in proportion to its size.

The woman who stands in front of her door and looks down the street is ... her husband.

NO QUARANTINE FOR PINKY-PANKY-POO

Or Whatever Mrs. Pat Campbell's Dog Is Named, She Gets Him Through.

Copyright, 1911, by Press Pub. Co. (New York World.)

LIVERPOOL, March 1.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell landed from the Mauretania yesterday with an air of triumph, carrying her pet dog, from which she refused to be separated at Fishguard, when the port authorities insisted that the dog should undergo quarantine.

During the liner's journey to Liverpool Mrs. Campbell's agents succeeded in obtaining the necessary permit for the dog to disembark.

It is understood that the authorities will strictly enforce the regulation that a dog landing in such circumstances must undergo daily examinations by a veterinary surgeon for six months, during which time it must be confined at the owner's residence and kept constantly muzzled.

Special House Committee Declares Attempt Was Made to Bribe Gore.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—The special committee of the House appointed last summer to investigate Senator Gore's charges of attempted bribery, in connection with J. W. McMurray's Indian attorney contracts in Oklahoma, made its final report to the House last night.

The majority of the committee found that Jake L. Hamon, about May 6 last, made an improper proposal to Senator Gore respecting the McMurray contracts, and that about June 16 last he approached Representative Charles F. Creager with an improper proposal on the same subject.

The committee found no evidence to show that Hamon was acting "by authority of or with the consent or knowledge of McMurray."

Which one of the three (all other things being equal) will gain the quickest audience with a modern business man? No. 1, of course!

The man whose raiment reflects his individuality and character—emphasizes his own self-respect—he whose garments are made for him—will surely derive many extra business advantages from his tailoring-advantage.

Of course, we're thinking of our tailoring when we're talking about your attire.

DEMOCRATS' HOME RULE BILL PASSED

Gov. Hadley Will Have Early Opportunity to Veto St. Louis Measure.

JEFFERSON CITY, March 1.—Representative Farris today called up the St. Louis police home rule bill, and it passed the House by a straight party vote, the Democrats supporting it. This measure has already passed the Senate, and will be sent at once to Gov. Hadley, who has announced his purpose to veto it, on the ground that it would mean saloon control of the St. Louis police.

Representative Coil of Vernon County declined to vote. He is interested in local option legislation, and was therefore opposed to the police and excise home rule proposed.

MARDI GRAS BANDS STRIKE

NEW ORLEANS, March 1.—Uncle Sam was forced to bend to the Musicians' Union in the Mardi Gras parade. Cruiser Tennessee's band was scheduled to parade, but 30 local bands struck, declaring union rule forbade their marching with Governments bands unless marines or soldiers were in line. The sailors' band was hustled ashore and the procession moved on.

SELLERS CONTROL PRICES IN THE GRAIN MARKETS

Late Rally, However, Wipes Out Most of the Early Decline.

Weakness in the Chicago market over the holiday encouraged sellers to renew their efforts for lower prices and records on the decline were scored in the early trading. Later the market lapsed into dullness and prices made a partial recovery.

Traders had to contend with the usual run of bearish news, and there was practically no improvement in speculative sentiment. Conditions are such that no one can see anything bullish in the situation. This mental state, after the long decline of over 24 cents is the best feature in the situation. With everybody a bear on top of a sensationally long decline the chances are about 10 to 1 that a turn in the market is not far away.

The Southwest had additional snow over the winter wheat area, but it is not needed as there has been sufficient precipitation in all directions.

There is still a chance for the reciprocity agreement to be held over into an extra session of Congress, in which case sufficient opposition may develop to make its passing questionable. Under such conditions wheat would rally on its oversold condition, if nothing else, which is largely a result of accumulated pessimism caused by America's break in prices since reciprocity was introduced into the situation as a market factor.

Foreign markets were again favoring lower values, and Liverpool prices were distinctly weak. Large tenders on March contracts, a smaller decrease in merchant stocks than expected, spot markets ½d lower, with weak country markets on large supplies, pronounced pressure to sell Plata steamers afloat and Australian offers large with prices lower, were bearish influences in the Liverpool speculation.

Broomhall's Argentine cable said: "Weather continues favorable for farm work and the movement of wheat and stocks are commencing to show accumulation. Holders are less reserved and are offering at a material decline."

The State crop report of Oklahoma places March wheat condition at 49. April is expected to show 75, owing to recent general rains. Last December condition was 35 and Government 58. Last July condition was 91 when crop was 23,000,000 bu. Thirteen big wheat counties report wheat just coming up, but latest advices say in good condition. Increased oat acreage is expected.

Liverpool spot wheat closed ½@1d lower, futures ⅞@1⅜d lower. Spot corn ⅛@1d lower, futures ½@1⅜d lower. Antwerp wheat ⅝c up, Berlin ⅝c lower, Budapest ¼c up. Paris no comparisons.

Corn was weak and lower and reflected speculative pressure. Cables were sharply lower on pressure on parcels and Chicago stocks showed an increase of 1,000,000 bu on the week, futher weakening the immediate options. The technical position of corn has been weakened by active short covering. Oats were lower in sympathy with corn and a poor speculative demand.

Export demands were quiet, although in the late trading several shipments were rumored. When exports do take place they will be held under cover at the start for speculative purposes.

Minneapolis wired: "No change in cash market. Mills good buyers of choice wheat. Flour demand slow and milling operations curtailed for lack of shipping directions. Small mills are up against a bad situation and larger mills not much better off. With exception of one company have heard of no flour sales this week."

Another wire to Shearson: "Hammill reported the sale of 300,000 bu of wheat to country millers in last 24 hours."

Export clearances of wheat and flour today were 369,000 bu; of corn, 649,000 bu; of oats, 5000 bu.

Cash wheat closed steady on light receipts and a slightly better demand in the late market.

Cash corn easy and dull, in sympathy with futures.

Cash oats easy to ¼c lower for white, with demand quiet; mixed oats weak.

ST. LOUIS MONEY MARKET.

So far this week there have been no important changes in the deposit items of the large St. Louis banks. There has been some feeling that there would presently be an outflow of currency to the interior, for the usual spring planting necessities, but if this condition is to develop, it will be some time from present signs before it is really a factor of importance.

Demand rates are steady at 4 to 4½ per cent, some of the banks obtaining 4½ per cent on choice mixed collateral. The quiet market on the local stock exchange is not producing much new paper at present.

NATIONAL LEAD.

When the annual report of the National Lead Co. is made public it will be carefully studied by the common shareholders to determine for themselves how far the sudden determination of the directors to cut the annual dividend from 5 per cent to 3 per cent was justified. The abnormal high price of flax seed was held responsible. The same situation is not looked for this year. The story crops up every now and then that the directors will exercise their privilege of recalling the outstanding preferred stock at par. If this is their intention they have not taken the public or their friends into their confidence.

NEW YORK MONEY.

U. S. STEEL.

NEW YORK, March 1.—The Financial World says: "It must be considered an extravagant assumption that this year will bring a very large number of orders for rails from our railroads. In 1910 the orders for rails totaled 3,634,028 tons, the largest of record. They were 3,023,845 in 1909, 1,921,015 in 1908 and 3,633,654 in 1907. Our steel mills can therefore not expect heavy orders from the railroads this year. If a boom in the steel industry is to set in this year, it can scarcely come before it is known what this year's crops will be. For this reason the boomers of United States Steel common work on credulity rather than on facts. There is no prospect of a better dividend on Steel common this year and probably none until after the next presidential election. The stock is in heavy supply whenever it gets near 80.

Snuff Co. Cuts Melon.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Directors of the American Snuff Co. sliced another "melon" today, declaring an extra dividend of 2 per cent besides the usual 5 per cent quarterly dividend.

ROBIN TIRES OF FIGHT, ENTERS A PLEA OF GUILTY

Fallen Banker Admits Larceny of $27,000 From the Washington Savings Bank.

SEVEN MORE INDICTMENTS

He Is Remanded to the Tombs and Will Be Sentenced March 27; Jerome Out of Case.

By Associated Press.

NEW YORK, March 1.—Joseph G. Robin, the fallen banker, pleaded guilty today to an indictment charging him with the larceny of $27,000 from the Washington Savings Bank, of which he formerly was president. Seven indictments against him remain. He was remanded to the Tombs until March 27, when he will be sentenced.

The collapse of Robin's defense of insanity put forward by his sister, Dr. Louise Robinovitch, and his counsel, William Travers Jerome, was foreshadowed last night when it was reported that Robin said he was "tired of all this fooling;" but it caused a stir in the courtroom none the less.

Rejected by Sanatorium.

On the night before the Northern Bank of New York, in which Robin also was interested, went into the hands of the State Superintendent of Banks, Robin was committed to a private sanitorium on affidavits sworn out by his sister and two physicians. The sanitorium rejected him and he returned to the jurisdiction of the court and submitted to arrest.

On the day he was arrested Robin attempted suicide on the way to court by swallowing poison, but the prompt use of a stomach pump saved him.

On motion of Jerome, alienists were appointed by the State and defense to examine his sanity and they reported unanimously that he was incompetent to undertake a defense. A jury sitting under Judge Swann rejected the findings of the alienists and Judge Swann complimented the jury on its "horse sense."

The case came to trial Monday, and Jerome's preliminary motions to dismiss on the ground that the defendant was insane were overruled by Justice Seabury. Jerome followed with a searching examination of each talesmman and all indications were that the case would be fought to the last ditch.

Then Jerome decided to withdraw from the defense, and Robin, through other counsel, pleaded guilty.

Through Robin's operations the Washington Savings Bank, the Northern Bank of New York, the Carnegie Trust Co. and a string of minor concerns which he promoted went into insolvency. No full statement of his larcenies has yet been made public by the State examiners.

The Western Union "Day Letter."

The Day Letter is the latest Western Union innovation to popularize and extend the facilities of the telegraph service. That company announces today the inauguration of the 50-word Day Letter as the day companion to the 50-word Night Letter, which is now so much used for all kinds of correspondence.

It is just a year since the Western Union launched the Night Letter and the popularity and success of that service in providing the means for an extended use of the telegraph by the public has prompted the company to give to the public similar advantages in the day service.

The Day Letter is to be written in plain English; code language or code words not accepted. Day Letters are to be transmitted as the facilities of the company will permit during business hours of the day, full rate telegrams having priority of transmission.

As the wires of the company are in much demand during the midday hours, it is advisable that Day Letters should be filed as early in the day as possible. This is desirable so that the company may dispatch and deliver Day Letters within the business hours of the day on which they are filed.

Day Letters will be accepted at all offices of the Western Union at any hour during the day, or they may be sent in by telephone.

The rate charged for a Day Letter of 50 words or less is one and one-half times the 50-word Night Letter rate, and for each additional 10 words or less one-fifth the initial charge. For example, the Night Letter rate between New York and Chicago is 50 cents, the Day Letter rate will be one and one-half times that, or 75 cents, with 15 cents for each additional 10 words. The New York-San Francisco Night Letter rate is $1; the Day Letter rate $1.50.

The Day Letter and the Night Letter give the United States the cheapest telegraph service in the world.

CONGRESS GIVES $500 FOR BIG RAT KILLING

Prizes for National Capital Citizens Who Join Slaughter to Keep Out Disease.

WASHINGTON, March 1.—Congress has appropriated $500 for prizes to the citizens of Washington in a rat-killing contest. Washington is not overrun with rats, but the city desires completely to exterminate disease-bearing rodents.

Health Commissioner Woodward says he believes "rat-killing contests" will completely offset possibility of the plague or other infectious diseases, whose germs are carried by rodents, from getting a hold on the city. He does not believe the national capital is in danger of plague or other serious diseases, but says it is better to take precautions.
